THE BOND SYNDICATE.

It is Dissolved Because Bonds are Not Selling.

New York, December 27.—The banking firm in charge of the government bond syndicate has sent the following notice to members:

"The action of the United States treasury on currency questions has stopped progress in the sale of bonds for the account of the five per cent. bond syndicate, and the period of thirty days mentioned in the notice of November 2 having expired, the syndicate is dissolved."

The agitation about currency reform and the number of peculiar suggestions made by certain government officials and members of congress, it is said, has weakened the market for government bonds generally and the price for the new fives has in consequence been depressed below the syndicate figure. The syndicate disposed of 35 per cent. of the issue and the remaining 65 per cent. was divided among the members.

Vice President Garland, of the First National bank, when seen this morning, confirmed the news that the bond syndicate had been dissolved. "It has been dissolved to-day by mutual consent," said Mr. Garland, "the authorities to the agreement having only agreed to hold the bonds for a month. The question of entering the syndicate was not even considered. The dissolution of the syndicate will not cause any break in the price. The break has already come. There will not be any further change in the price.

"In dissolving the syndicate the parties to it took into consideration the unsettlement of the market for bonds, due to the offering to congress of the currency plan of Secretary Carlisle, which by its provisions would have compelled the national banks to dispose of at least $200,000,000 in bonds on or before July 1, 1895. With such a possible block of bonds to come on the market, the question of continuing the agreement to hold the bonds was not even thought of."

Mr. Garland said that the amount of bonds which the syndicate intended to [illegible] to the public, and which are still unsold, aggregated about $20,000,000.

Took Poison and Died.

Philadelphia, December 28.—Smarting under the accusation that she was a thief, comely Mary Engle, aged 20 years, swallowed carbolic acid at her home this afternoon and died within half an hour. Whether she was guilty will probably never be known.

Since August 27 the cloud of accusation had been hanging over her and when today her mother spoke as if she believed what others had said against her she remarked: "Well, you will not be bothered with me much longer."

A few minutes later Mary appeared before her mother again with a bottle in her hand. In her mother's presence she swallowed the deadly poison.

Miss Engle was accused of stealing a watch. The suspicion really fell upon her through a kindness she thought she was bestowing upon a neighbor, a woman she had known for some time, who was moving. In company with several others, Mary assisted in doing the work. Finally a watch was missed. Suspicion fell upon Miss Engle, and a warrant for her arrest was issued. When she heard of it she left the city and did not reture until Wednesday last. Her departure from the city appears to have confirmed the suspicion against her.

A Lumberman in Trooble.

Clearfield, Pa., Dec. 28.—About $7,000 in judgments have been entered against Charles Schwem, a lumberman of BuBois, and executions are in the hands of the sheriff. A few days ago Schwem persuaded two DuBois business men to endorse a $1,000 note for him, then left town and it is presumed that he will not return. His endorsers have learned that he had tried to have the note discounted at Big and Punxsutawney. They have traced him to Buffalo, but he has not yet been apprehended. Schwem is a well known business man and politician. His liabilities are said to be $40,000.

Means a Consolidation.

Harrisburg, December 28.—The revised revenue bill as adopted by the state tax conference has been referred to a committee consisting of Joseph D. Weeks, of Pittsburg; L. H. Rhone, of Centre county and C. Stuart Patterson, of Philadelphia, to put in shape for presentation to the legislature. It consolidates the revenue laws of 1889, 1891 and 1893, eliminating such portions as are inconsistent with the general system adopted and adding some new subjects of taxation.

—A certain judge took occasion recently to warn his people from coming into the court room drunk, in these words: "I wish to put everybody on notice that if they come into this court room while I am setting on this bench drunk they had better look out."

DEATH OF DR. WOODS.

Dies of a Paraletic Stroke on Sunday Evening.

On Sunday evening the people of Boalsburg and vicinity, as well as his many friends in many parts of the county, were shocked to hear of the sudden and unexpected death of Dr. John F. Woods, which occurred at his home at Boalsburg about six o'clock p. m., of that day. Dr. Woods had apparently been in the best of health, but a sudden paraletic stroke, carried him off without warning of any kind.

Deceased was aged about fifty-six years and was considered one of the best physicians in the county. He leaves to mourn their loss a wife and seven children, namely, John F., Anna D., Laura, Helen, Samuel, Rose and William.

The Title of the Governor.

A correspondent in one of our contemporaries has raised the question as to whether the Governor of Pennsylvania is to be addressed by some distinguishing title, such as his Excellency. This is a very old conundrum both as applying to the President of the United States and to the chief executives in various States.

The Pittsburg "Times" revives the historical fact that in Congress immediately after the adoption of the Constitution there was a joint committee on title. There was a truly funny and long continued debate on the subject, with a very strong disposition, participated in both the Southern and New England representatives, that the President should be known be some title. Whether it should be his "Elective Majesty," his "Highness" or his "Excellency" was the subject of the most vidiculous dispute, and it is all the more ridiculous because it was conducted with so much gravity by some of the foremost men of the time.

Nothing was accomplished, however, and we have been getting further from the nonsense of titles ever since. The President has none, and, with the exception of two New England States, there is no legislation in any of the States conferring a title upon the Governor. It has been something of a practice with many, however, to speak of the Governor as his Excellency, and it has been used sometimes in official intercourse. Its commonest use, probably, has been in petitions to the Executive where it seems to have been thought well to use a little sweetening to secure a proper hearing.

In this state we have had Governors with bad taste enough to encourage the use of the designation "Your Excellency." Their communications have been announced to the Legislature as from "His Excellency the Governor." This does not strike some people as laughable, but it is altogether so. We are confident that when the secretary of Governor Hastings is instructed with the delivery of any message to the Legislature his simple announcement will be "a message from the Governor of the Commonwealth," and that there will be no foolishness about titles.

A Fatal Accident.

Howard Davis, a son of "Jacky" Davis, met with an accident on Monday about noon which resulted in his death the same evening. He was employed as a trapper boy at Pardee mine, No. 2, and was coming out of the mines on a trip when he accidentally fell between two bank cars, crushing his right leg most frightfully. He was taken to the hospital, but his condition was such that all efforts to save his life were in vain and he died about 8 o'clock in the evening. The young man was just fourteen years old the day he met his death. He was a boy who had many friends, to whom his death is sad news. The grief stricken parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their deep sorrow.—Journal.

Interested in Educational Work.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Schaeffer says the interest this year in institute work and education in Pennsylvania is unprecedented. At Greensburg and Bedford, where institutes were held last week, it was necessary to hold overflow meetings to accommodate the teachers. Dr. Schaeffer says the condition of the educational institutions in Pennsylvania was never better. He intimates that there were many things the department is particularly anxious to introduce, but is not prepared to make them public.

THE Pension appropriation bill now before the Senate from the House calls for $141,581,570 for the year ending next June, and the number of pensioners on the rolls is 969,544—an average annual value of each pension of $134.20. The high water mark has been reached. The brave boys who saved the Nation are rapidly passing away, but there are many who begrudge them even this slight token of gratitude.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

The Assessors' Returns for the Past Six Months.

Hands Off Hawaii.

Those critics of administration who insisted that the revolution in Hawaii was the work of the Hawaiian themselves, and was not brought about by the intervention of the United States, do not seem to be [illegible] ness of this view. They still insist that the presence of an American naval force is necessary to hold up the new government. They are afraid that in the absence o such precaution the natives will over turn the Republic and re-establish a monarchy in its place.

If this fear is well founded, it furnishes the fullest justification of the attitude of the present administration in withdrawing the unauthorized and un-American "protectorate" under which the provisional government was originally established, since it is an acknowledgment that government was not the choice of the people, and is not able, even after two years' possession, to hold its own without assistance.

On the other hand, Admiral Walker, whose judgment is appealed to by these same writers, has recorded the opinion that it would be better to leave the Hawaiian Government now to its own resources. He believes that it is able to maintain itself, but this can only be ascertained by actual experience. If this so-called government is dependent upon the physical or even the moral support of a man-of-war in the harbor of Honolulu, the sooner the fact is ascertained the better.

The United States earned enough discredit by setting it up in the first place, and cannot afford the continued reproach of maintaining it against the wishes of the people. The one Americanduty toward Hawaii is to keep hands off.

Muncy Bank President Free.

John M. Bowman, the ex-president of the Muncy bank, who was convicted recently at Williamsport for making false returns to the treasury department, will not be punished for his crime, as sentence has been suspended by order of the United States court in Pittsburg. Several petitions were presented to the court asking sentence to be suspended. One was signed by all the jurors who rendered the verdict; another by all the witnesses who appeared against Mr. Bowman; a third by 37 of the 50 stockholders in the bank, representing 562 of the 897 outstanding shares of stock, and another signed by 362 of the 473 registered voters in Muncy.

Eclipses of the Moon.

During the present year there will be five eclipses—three of the sun and two of the moon. The latter two only will be visible to the residents of Altoona. Both are total eclipses, and come at times favorable for observation. The first will occur on March 10, beginning at a few minutes before 8 in the evening and ending at 1.21 the next morning. The other takes place on Sept. 3. The moon will enter the shadow at exactly 11 p. m. and emerge at 5.54 a. m. on the 4th.

The New Capitol at Harrisburg.

For many years the subject of a new Capitol building for Pennsylvania has been mooted at each session of the State Legislature. The old buildings are inadequate in every respect; they are so rich in historic association that the Legislature would not allow them to be destroyed.

Two years ago it was finally determined to leave the old Capitol buildings intact, but to erect a new edifice beside them in the centre of the spacious Capitol Park. That building has just been completed, some two months before the stipulated time. Its cost was $800,000.

The new Capitol is a magnificent piece of work both from an architect's and an artisan's point of view. It is built in the purest style of the Italian Renaissance; it is perfectly proportioned in every detail, and embodies in white stone the highest form of creative art and mechanical skill. Apparently one edifice, it practically consists of two distinct buildings, as the new State Library, with a capacity for 500,000 volumes, is entirely separate from the executive department, the only inside means of communication being through a private door. The executive building has a front of 120 feet, and a depth of 105. It is entered from a sem-circular portico, supported by Ionic columns. The walls of the immense vestibule are lined with polished Sienna marble, which contrast well with the elaborately carved pilasters of Caen stone that support a half-groined ceiling, beautifully modelled and panelled in stucco. The vistibule opens through an arched doorway into a long hall. The gallery is supported by carved columns and arches. The architrave and frieze are elaborately carved. There are heads of the Indian, the African, the Oriental; of fauns and satyrs; of Penn, Meade, Franklin, Mifflin and Wayne; and life-sized eagles with extended wings. The walls of the hall are lined with light Numidian marble set in a base of pink Georgian marble. Each wall is broken into panels by pilasters and bands of richly carved Caen stone. All of the doorways in the building are arched and carved.

In the executive building will soon be found the officers of the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Attorney-General, Auditor-General, and State Treasurer.

The Library is 147 feet long, 55 wide, and 30 high. Around the four walls, at a height of 15 feet, runs a gallery. Around this the bookcases are arranged in alcoves, each alcove being entirely distinct, and having a large window as well as table and chairs. The building naturally is fireproof, even the cases being of metal. Every room, whether large or small, is perfectly finished, and speaks well for the skill of the architect, John T. Windrim, of Philadelphia, and for the work of the contractors, also of the Quaker City. The various departments are now moving as rapidly as possible into the new Capitol, and it is probable that Governor Pattison will be able to enjoy the commodious quarters for a few weeks at least before he resigns the insignia of authority to General D. H. Hastings.

Cleveland Financiering.

From New York Sun.

"President Cleveland exhibits a remarkable talent for blundering in financial matters. * * * The practical tendency of the measure [the president's bill relating to bank currency] is to add $750,000,000 to the $1,000,000,000 of paper and silver money now resting upon the small and steadily dwindling of gold in the treasury. That this must lead to a speedy suspension of gold payments is too plain for argument.

"The eminent financiers in Wall street who have assisted the president twice in his unlawful sale of bonds to get money for current expenses, under the delusion that they are maintaining the national credit, can now see just what sort of a financier he is. They have loaded themselves up with $100,000,000 of bonds of questionable legality, and before they have been able to dispose of half of them, the president proposes to throw upon the market the $200,000,000 of bonds held by the national banks, and, besides, to inflate the currency to such an extent as to bring on the very suspension of gold payments, which they were so anxious to prevent!"

Death of Rev. George Frear.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Dec. 27—Rev. Dr. George Frear, ex-pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, died this afternoon after a lingering illness. The deceased was born in Eaton, Wyoming county, June 21 1831, and was a son of Rev. Wm. Frear. He graduated from the Lewisburg university in 1856. In 1858 he went to Upland, Delaware county, and a few months later was ordained in Reading. The deceased was at one time curator of Bucknell university.

HORTON INAUGURATED.

He Assumed the Duties of Governor of New York at Albany on Tuesday.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 1.—Hon. Levi P. Morton was to-day inaugurated as governor of the state of New York for the ensuing three years. He is the first Republican to assume the duties of this office since 1879.

The ceremonies were presided over by Secretary of State Palmer and Governor Flower welcomed the governor-elect in a few well chosen words.

Mr. Morton then took the constitutional oath of office and delivered an address, saying: "Fellow Citizens—We are justly proud of the great state in which we live and I should be restraining my feelings if I were to withhold this public acknowledgement of my appreciation of the honor which has been conferred upon me by my election as its chief executive. Vast powers are vested in the hands of the governor by the people, in the firm reliance that he shall and will exercise them wisely and well. The state government touches the people much more closely than does the national government.

"Many questions of importance will confront the legislature and governor of this state during my official tenure of office. I shall strive to discharge the duties for the best interests of the whole people, and I invoke, therefore, the earnest support of all those who are in authority, in behalf of an honest and economical administration of government, for the promotion of the true prosperity of our fellow citizens and the glory of our state and nation."

Death of Mrs. C. H. DeHaas.

News has been received in this place of the death in Baltimore, on Monday, December 31st, 1894, of Mrs. Abigail, J., wife of Mr. C. H. DeHaas. Mrs. DeHaas was a daughter of Mr. Philip Walker, deceased, of Clintondale, Pa. They resided in Bellefonte sometime during the seventies when Mr. DeHaas was miller for Gerberich and Hale, and afterward for W. F. Reynolds & Co. From here the family moved to Philipsburg, then to Tyrone and later on to Altoona. Some three or four years ago they moved from Altoona to Baltimore, where they have lived ever since.

Deceased was a member of the Baptist church, and leaves one son, aged about 25 years, and a husband to mourn their loss. She is also survived by her mother, who is past 84 years of age; by two sisters, Mrs. L. T. Eddy, of Milesburg, and Nannie, of Clintondale, and two brothers, Cyrus, of Clintondale, and Harry, of Lock Haven. The remains were brought to Clintondale where the funeral took place Wednesday at 11 o'clock a. m.

At 3 o'clock Friday afternoon the Market street bridge at Williamsport was formally opened to the public, and the first vehicle crossed the new structure. It was just 7 months to a day since the old bridge was swept away by the flood.

A Crank Arrested.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Eugene S. Swingle, of Dillon, Ohio, has been filling the patent office and the office of his attorneys here with letters about some crank invention which he wanted patented. A few days ago he visited his attorneys and the patent office in person and became convinced that he was being defrauded of his rights and decided he must kill some one. He left a note for Mr. Johnson, of the patent office declaring his intentions and was soon found and arrested. A revolver and two boxes of cartridges were found on his person. Swingle says he went into a church this morning and while there the inspiration came to him to kill some one of the same name as the building.

Considering the fact that his attorney's firm name is Church & Church, it is very possible he would have killed one or both of them had he not been arrested.

THE WESTERN WAY.

When A County Treasurer Defaults He Is Brought Up Smart.

O'Neill, Neb., January 1.—Barrett Scott, the defaulting treasurer of Holt county to the extent of several thousand dollars, is supposed to have been hanged by vigilantes, who then weighted the body and threw it into the quicksands in the Niobrara river yesterday afternoon.

Scott, pending examination, has been released on bail and yesterday took a drive, accompanied by his wife, daughter and niece, Miss McWhorter, several miles east of here in the country. They had started to return home and had gone a short distance when a volley of shots was fired into their carriage from ambush by masked men. One of the bullets pierced Scott's ear and scratched his temple. Another struck a steel in Miss McWhorter's corset, then glanced off inflicting a flesh wound and lodging in her clothing. One horse was instantly killed and the other mortally injured. The vigilantes than attached another pair of horses to the carriage and drove the party over the prairie, finally depositing the women and commanding them to go to a farm house a short distahce away. Scott and his driver Henry Smith, were then blindfolded and taken toward the Niobrara river, where Smith was released and told to go home. This was the last seen of Scott and it is supposed that he was treated the same as James Hill and his son a short time ago—hanged and thrown into the river.

Mrs. Scott, her daughter, and Miss McWhorter returned to the city about 1 o'clock this morning, and when the details of the affair became generally known friends organized a posse and started in pursuit of the mob.

Meeting of Pennsylvania Traffic.

Greensburg, Pa., Jan. 1—The Populist leaders of the state, about fifty in number, met in conference here this afternoon. Dr. C. V. Buch, of Huntingdon county, presided. An active educational campaign for this year was agreed upon, and the Industrial Legion was indorsed as a means o raising funds for this work. The Omaha platform was indorsed, and Senator Flynn's "Greater Pittsburg" and good roads bills and the financial schemes of congress were disapproved. A resolution was adopted suggesting to congress the establishment of a board of charities, with a cabinet official at its head, with national powers adequate for the prompt relief that calamities such as the country has lately been subjected to require. Coxey's ideas of good roads and bonds were indorsed, as was Governor Tillman's plan of dealing with the liquor traffic.

Shot McCabe in Revenge.

New York, Jan. 1.—William Walsh, a bricklayer, shot and fatally wounded Patrick McCabe about midnight last night. Both men were listening to the chimes of St. Andrew's church, when Walsh drew a revolver and without any warning fired at McCabe, the ball entering his head and striking the spinal cord. The doctors have no hope of his recovery. Walsh was arraigned this morning and held without bail. He charges McCabe with reducing his (Walsh's) niece in Ireland several years ago, and says he shot McCabe in revenge. McCabe denies the charge.

Lynched a Murderer.

Sterling, Ky., Jan. 1.—Twenty-five men went to the county jail here at 2 o'clock this morning, overpowered Jailer Best, secured the keys and took from the jail Tom Blair, of Morgan county, and hanged him to a railroad trestle in the city limits. Blair fought desperately for his life and was beaten almost into insensibility before he was lynched. He was one of the murderers of Capt. J. L. Bomas, in this city last February. He was cleared of the charge and was in jail for shooting with intent to kill a few days ago. It is supposed friends of Bomas were the lynchers.

THE TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.

What the Centre County Pedagogues are Doing.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The fifth session of the teacher's institute opened promptly at 1:30 o'clock. The first on the program was the usual song service. The Gypsy Life and several other selections were sung. Prof. Lose then arose to answer several questions put to him by some of the teachers present. He answered them in a very cheerful and creditable manner.

A vote of thanks was tendered the W. C. T. U. and the Y. W. C. T. U., particularly the organization at Philipsburg, for a journal on temperance work, which they had sent out to the teachers throughout the county.

Dr. Algrove, president of one of our institutions of learning was introduced to the audience and delivered quite a lengthy address upon the subject of work. In his remarks he said teaching was the art of stimulating and promoting the art of working, he clearly showed that by concentrating the mind upon the subject at hand better results good be obtained in a short time than could be by brooding over the same thing for a long period. At the close of Dr. Algrove's remarks, several selections were sung.

The committee appointed to recommend a course of reading for the teachers of the county was asked to meet Supt, Gramley in his office at 5 o'clock.

After a short intermission the institute was again called to order.

Prof. Lose then announced a meeting of the Philipsburg Institute to be held in that place February 22nd and 23rd., to which the teachers of Centre county were cordially invited.

Mr. Houck then talked about school directors whether they should be salaried or not. He thinks not, but he does think that they should not be placed at any expense whatever. Some of the best directors he ever knew, and he was Supt., for nine years, were uneducated men. $5,500,000 is the appropriation of the State for the maintenance of the schools, yet some children only get a hundred days school out of the year. He hoped the day would come when the county schools in this state would have seven or eight months school and the salary of the teachers would be $50 per month. One thing he regretted was, that whether the term be three months or nine, some parents would deem it necessary to keep their children out of school the first and last month.

He thanked the large audience for the good order and attention shown throughout the sessions. The order was certainly remarkable, considering the fact that the room was uncomfortably full.

The roll was then called by Supt. Gramley. Dr. Draper then made the closing remarks after which the institute adjourned to meet again Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Institute was opened with the usual devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Ed. Everett Hoshour, of the Lutheran church, assisted musically by Prof. C. J. Swift. Wednesday's minutes were read and approved.

Supt. Gramley announced that the Local Institute fourth district committee would meet in the grand jury room. Prof. Albert of Bloomsburg, was introduced and lectured on "Human Appetites." Throughout his discourse he carried a very pretty contrast between the mental and physical appetites of a child. He summed the art of education up into the following:

Instruction—to put into a child. Education—to extract from a child. Discipline—to force a child to think. Mr. Albert's speech can safely be considered as an occasion for wonder, on account of the logic it contained and the eloquence of its delivery. His speech completed, a song service was conducted by musical director on the importance of music as a factor of education. Mr. Swift also read a petition which he intends presenting to the State Legislature for the passage of such laws as will afford the proper means of teaching this valuable adjunct to the school curriculum. On motion of Prof. Wolf the petition was unanimously ratified by the institute as a whole and as individuals. After intermission Supt. Gramley announced that district, No. 3, would meet prior to the afternoon session.

At this juncture Hon. L. I. Handy, of Newark, Del., was introduced. Mr. Handy chose for his subject "Negro life in the South." Before beginning his speech he paid a glowing tribute to Hon. Henry Houck by saying that one of our great wits had stolen his best stories from that able gentleman. The speaker is a wit of rare ability and can tell a story so as to give its greatest effect. The experiences of his boyhood days among the African residents Swift, during which he gave a short talk in the south were of a diversified and pleasing nature.

Prof. Albert then gave a brief talk on "Geography in primary schools." At the close of this discourse a vote was taken for officers for the ensuing year after which institute adjourned.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON

The seventh session of the Centre county Teacher's institute opened with a musical drill in which the entire association took part. Prof. C. J. Swift, musical instructor was leader. Prof. Gramley then made the following announcements. The local institute of district No. 3 will be held on the third Saturday in January at the Stone building in Bellefonte; district No. 2 will hold local institute on Jan. 25th, at Pine Grove Mills.

The returns of the election of officers for the ensuing year were read and were as follows. Viz. Vice President—H. C. Rothrock, Prof. Chas. Lose. Secretary J. H. Harpster. Com. on Permanent Certificates, R. D. Foreman. J. M. McCloskey, J. H. Delong, H. P. Robb, W. B. Haines.

The county supt. by virtue of his office being its president.

Promptly at 2 o'clock, as announced, Prof. Albert of the Bloomsburg State Normal School the principal instructor of the week, arose and began his lecture on Geography, in which he advocated the study of Commercial Geography by the use of moulds and maps made by the students pulps. He divides Geography as follows:

SOIL { Surface, Climate. }

PRODUCTS { Vegetable, Animal, Mineral.

This address was followed by a very enthusiastic rendition of our national song "America." At the conclusion of this song Hon. Henry Houck, arose and made a very logical address on Discipline, in which he made the assertion that the disciplinary power of a teacher is better than a Normal school education. At the conclusion of Mr. Houck's address a five minutes intermission was granted, after which Prof. Gramley made a few announcements concerning periodical literature for the teachers. He also stated that Local institute No. 5 would convene at Unionville on the second Friday in January.

The roll was then called to which over 265 teachers responded. After the roll had been called and several selections had been sung, Prof. D. M. Wolf, our "old stand by," made a few encouraging remarks to the teachers.

Governor-elect Hastings was expected to address the audience, but for some unknown reason was unable to appear at the appointed time.

The teachers felt so patriotic that they again rendered "America" after which the session adjourned.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Friday morning at 9 o'clock the final session of the Teacher's institute, convened. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Shaw of the U. B. church, the institute joining in the responsive service.

Prof. Swift was the first speaker of the morning. He thanked the teachers for their support of attention to the part he in making the week interesting and profitable. As his time for departing had come he bade them good by in a few brief words.

The secretary read the minutes which were approved by the institute.

Dr. Edward Devine Secretary of the University Extension Society made a strong plea in behalf of its support. The three great tasks in which the society is engaged are: first; the elementary training of scientific specialists; third, training of citizens not merely the boys and girls, but training the adult population to become better acquainted with history and the current events, which will make them wiser and better citizens. Mr. Devine occupied twenty of the thirty minutes allowed him for the discussion of the topic.

The remaining time was occupied by Mr. Fortney, who advocated and supplemented what the previous speaker had said. He did this in his usual emphatic style, giving at the same time many practical thoughts to be carried away by the directors and teachers.

Hon. Houck arose to say a few words before parting. Everybody regretted that the time was short. He said he thought teacher's institute was a good place to be but that there was still a better place, that was, home.

Prof. Albert of the Bloomsburg Normal spoke of the moral as well as the mental culture of the child.

He also spoke of the difference between education and training. He said a dog could be trained, not educated; a horse could be trained, not educated; but a child could be educated as well as trained because it possessed reasoning faculties. Teaching, he said, was the art, never the science of developing human growth.

Prof. Hubbard and Dr. D. M. Wolf answered some questions which had been referred to Mr. Houck, but he had not the time to answer them.

Mr. Harpster as chairman of the memorial committee, read the resolutions which had been prepared upon the death of Mr. Bean, Mr. Will Smith, and of ex-Governor A. G. Curtin.

Prof. Rutt, of the Bellefonte High School read the report of the committee on resolutions.

Prof. Hubbard gave the report of the committee on a reading course,

Dr. Wolf and Prof. Etters made some remarks in addition to what Prof. Hubbard had said.

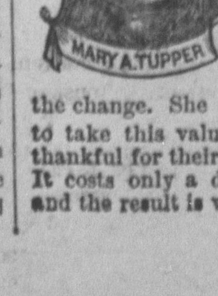

Prof. Handy, the lecturer of Thursday evening was then introduced. He spoke in a general way but largely about the responsibilities of the teacher. He said it was not the easy tasks which proved the most interesting and beneficial, but those over which we are forced to exercise same thought and muscle.

The receipts of the institute were $543.42 and the expenditures $511.70, leaving a balance of $31.72.

Prof. McCloskey offered a resolution on the maintenance of the Christian sabbath, which was adopted.

Supt. Gramley made a few remarks, in which he said that the attendance of the teachers was very encouraging. All the teachers were present but thirteen, eleven of those absent were teachers in the borough of Philipsburg one of the other two was absent on account of illness.

The roll was then called after which the minutes of the morning session were read. The institute then adjourned having closed a very profitable session.

Mrs. Mary A. Tupper has been released, at Wilton, Me., from the custody of extreme Female Weakness, which kept her a prisoner in bed unable to walk. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made the change. She advises all sick women to take this valuable medicine, and be thankful for their lives, as she is for hers. It costs only a dollar at any druggists, and the result is worth millions.

Meeting of the Centre County School Director's Association.

On Wednesday morning promptly at 10 o'clock the school directors of Centre county met in regular annual session in the room of the Bellefonte High School.

The regular President being absent Dr. Theo. S. Christ was elected chairman. On the calling of the roll seventy-seven directors answered to their names.

Dr. J. F. Harter, of Millheim, Charles Smith, of Bellefonte, and Riley Pratt, of Unionville, were appointed a committee to select officers for the coming year.

On the report of the committee the following officers were elected: President, Dr. Theodore S. Christ, of Lemont; Vice President, Owen Underwood, of Fleming; Secretary and Treasurer, W. B. Rankin, of Bellefonte; Executive Committee, D. F. Fortney, Bellefonte; J. C. Henderson, Huston; W. E. Irwin, Philipsburg; J. T. Potter, Potter; Charles Wolf, Haines.

Dr. A. E. Winship, of Boston, Mass., addressed the association, the line of thought being the duty of directors, in this age of progress and sharp competition, to provide the boys and girls with higher and better educational facilities.

Dr. A. S. Draper also addressed the association and made one of the cleanest, clean cut, and most practical addresses ever made to school directors, and one which, could only be made by such a man as Dr. Draper. Two thoughts were well elaborated:

1st. The business duties of the directors—such as building houses and providing the means of carrying on the [illegible]

2nd. The instruction part, which only devolved on the directors so far as the securing of the teachers concerned.

On this latter point he said some, in instruction, were dear at any cost, however little it may be, while proper instruction under a good teacher was cheap at any price, however high it may be.

Altogether this was the most largely attended and successful director meeting ever held. Some of the members of the association made brief remarks and asked questions on topics of interest. Very many directors expressed the hope that hereafter there would at least be two sessions of the association—one in the morning and one in the afternoon.

The Hoover-Milliron Case.

Among the cases in court last week was one of a peculiar nature, that of an officer being tried for assault and battery. George Hoover is a policeman in DuBois and the council had passed an ordinance preventing the loafing of people on a certain corner and instructed Hoover to see that the ordinance was carried out. One Milliron had been told repeatedly to move off the corner but it appears refused until the policeman took hold of him and put him off by force, and then Milliron had Hoover arrested for assault and battery. The suit resulted in a verdict of guilty and a sentence of $1 fine and costs was imposed on Hoover. The judge, in his charge to the jury, stated that although Milliron was a constable, he had no more right to block up the sidewalk than any other citizen, and when he was ordered to move on, he should have done so. Had the policeman arrested Milliron for blocking the way the case would have resulted differently, and it is to be presumed hereafter that if Hoover requests persons to move on that they will move on or be placed under arrest.—Clearfield Republican.

Christmas in Bellefonte.

Christmas in Bellefonte was a very quiet day. Some of the principal stores were open a brief time in the morning, but everything was closed, up in the afternoon. The weather was not of the most auspicious. It snowed and rained Monday night, and this made the streets and pavements quite disagreeable Tuesday forenoon. By noon the snow was gone, the pavements dry and it then began to grow cold and by evening was quite sharp out. During the day there were services in several of the churches.

Preparing for the Holidays.

One hundred and ninety-seven jugs of whiskey, in quantities of from one-half gallon to three gallons, occupied a good part of the express car on the Beech Creek road last Wednesday evening. The goods were shipped from Williamsport and consigned to various parties along the road, who are evidently preparing for a "wet" Christmas.—Raftsman's Journal.

A HANDSOME PRESENT.

Gregg Post to be Presented a Notable Emblem.

We were shown this morning one of the most beautiful and elaborate specimens of needle work ever seen. It was the coat of arms of the United States, represented by three flags, a shield, eagle, arrows and olive branch. The whole was worked in finest silk, in natural colors, on a background of black silk, and is about three by four feet in size. It was made in Japan especially for the purpose of presenting it to Gregg Post, by Harry Jackson, son of Banker George W. Jackson. The writer has no adequate idea of the value of this remarkable piece of work, but there is no doubt but that it will be appreciated by the Post beyond expressing in words.

It will be presented to the Post at a public installation, Saturday evening, January 5th.

Cheaper Telephone Service Assured.

The decision of Judge Carpenter, of the United States Circuit Court, sitting at Boston, annulling the Berliner telephone patent, will, if sustained by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, put an end to all telephone monopoly in this country and put all telephone manufacturers and corporations on an equal footing. Unless special privileges are granted to existing or new telephone companies by municipal ordinances, telephone service hereafter will be open to competition and will be furnished at a fair margin of profit upon the capital actually employed. The enormous royalties heretofore accruing to the owners of exclusive telephone patents will cease

The decision will prove of great advantage to those to whom the telephone has become a daily necessity. The instrument has become one of the convenince of modern life which connot be dispensed with, but heretofore it has been so costly that thousands who would have been glad to avail themselves of it could not afford the expense. Open competition in telephone service will quickly double and probably treble the number in use, and if the profits are more moderate than formerly the convenience to the public will be greatly increased.

The Poor House Question.

Last Saturday a petition was presented to the Court of Centre county, signed by 44 overseers of the poor from various portions of Centre county, requesting that the question of a county poor house be submitted to a vote of the people. And, in accordance therewith, the Court at once issued a decree, or order, directing the county commissioners and the Sheriff to take immediately the necessary steps required and submit the question to a vote of the people at the February election next. Consequently, Sheriff Condo has already inserted the necessary election proclamation, and next February the taxpayers of Centre county will have an opportunity of voting as to whether they will have a poor house or whether they will not.

New Stamped Envelopes.

The new series will consist of envelopes of all sizes and kinds, including three special sizes for business purposes. By an order to go into effect after the first of January, business men, when ordering stamped envelopes, can have their business card or return notice printed on the envelopes free of cost. Heretofore there was an extra charge for this. Another feature of importance in connection with this is the fact that after January 1 the price on stamped envelopes will be on an average, taking all sizes, about 40 per cent lower than heretofore.

Like a Gold Mine.

Two years ago Charles Evans gave $9,000 for the Seaside hotel property where the Hotel Hoffman now stands, on Pennsylvania avenue, Atlantic City. Since then the sea has added to his property, from which he has sold, perhaps, $100,000 and still has the hotel, worth 20 times the original price. He has $1,000 worth of land still in his possession. This is equal to finding a gold mine.

A Farmer's Experience.

John Green, a farmer of Mercer county had an interesting time killing hogs recently, and with experience he will not soon forget. He brought the water to a scalding temperture by heating large stones and throwing them into the barrel of water. This worked very well until the men hoisted up a hugh boulder, commonly called a "nigger head," nearly red hot, when a terrific explosion ensued, breaking the cask and throwing the water out upon Mr. Green and scalding him severely, instead of the hog he was hauling.

She is Thankful.

I hereby extend my thanks to Mr. Joseph Garbrich, who so kindly went around and solicited money to get me an invalid chair. My condition for the past three or four months has been very bad. I could not walk without crutches and now I cannot walk at all nor have I the use of but one arm. I also extend my sincere thanks to all who so kindly contributed money for the above purpose. I find the chair a great comfort and convenience.

BERTHA THOMPSON.

THE FARMERS are generally opposed to class legislation, and yet there is really no stronger example objectionable class lawmaking than the oleo laws Leonard Rhone and the State Grangers insist shall be maintained. Mr. Rhone defines oleomargarine as "a vile production," and yet the Federal internal tax collected on this article amounted to $1,725,000 last year, and this was the solitary article of internal taxation that showed an increase during the depression. There is no bar to its sale in this State and other States find a profitable market here for what should provide a great industry but for the prohibitory laws. Mr. Rhone forgets that the natural right to make and use oleo is the same right applying to butter. Above all things else consumers in the cities are the best judges as to what they shall eat, drink or wear, and sumptuary legislation is unwarranted interference. The present crusade against oleo is likely to prove a two-edged sword.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW

IT WAS in April, 1891, that the first number of the American Review of Reviews was printed The new idea of giving the best that was in the other magazines in addition to its own brilliant, original articles, took America by storm, as it had taken England—though the magazine itself was not at all a reprint of the English edition. It deals most largely with American affairs, and is edited with perfect independence, in its own office.

The Review of Reviews is a monthly, timely in illustration and text, and instantly alive to the newest movements of the day, to a degree never before dreamed of. Thousands of readers who offer their commendations, among them the greatest names in the world, say that the Review of Reviews gives them exactly what they should know about politics, literature, economics and social progress. The most influential men and women of all creeds and all parties have agreed that no family can afford to lose its educational value, while for professional and business men, it is simply indispensable The departments are conducted by careful specialists, instead of mere scissors-wielders, and scores of immediately interesting portraits and pictures are in each number.

All this explains why the Review of Reviews has come to a probably unprecedented success in the first three years of its existence. For 1895 it will be more invaluable than ever.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Dec. 31, 1894.

From Our Regular Correspondent.)

The extra session bugaboo was raised by the administration democrats to frighten hesitating democrats into supporting the Carlisle currency bill and to deter republicans from placing obstacles in the way of any legislation approved by the administration; but now, like the genie released from the bottle, the bugaboo has grown so great that it threatens to overshadow everything else. The question of calling of an extra session of Congress, which was first considered merely in a might-have-to-be light, has now nearly reached the must-be stage. If something is not done by this Congress to stop the drain of gold from the Treasury, and there isn't one chance in a thousand that any thing will be done, it will not be a matter of choice with Mr. Cleveland. He will have to call the republican Congress together in order to get something done.

Very little hope is now entertained by any democrat that the Carlisle currency bill will be passed by the House in its present shape and not much that it will be passed by the Senate. But the ablest financiers in Congress agree in saying that if the currency bill were to become a law to-morrow it would do the Treasury more harm than good. Even Secretary Carlisle who is willing to pose as author of the bill, admits that it would not help the Treasury for something to come and that it is not altogether certain that it ever would. Meanwhile the drain on the gold in the Treasury continues and the receipts of the government continue to be much less than its expenditures. These facts have aroused the republicans to the necessity of formulating a plan for legislation at the extra session, if one be called. They don't want an extra session, would much prefer having until next December to think about legislation, but true to the traditions of the party they will be found ready to do their duty whenever called upon.

It can be stated on high authority that the republicans in the Senate have no idea of shielding the democrats from any of the popular disapproval that they earned since they controlled all branches of the government. Several republican Senators may when the urgency appropriation bill gets before the Senate, seek to have the appropriation for the collection of the income tax struck out of that bill, but they will not be supported by any considerable number of republicans. Nothing would please the democrats who have realized what a mistake the income tax was, chief of whom is Mr. Clevnland, more than to have republican Senators defeat the appropriation for the collection of that tax. That would enable the democratic party to play its favorite and usual double-faced role in another campaign—in states where the income tax is popular it would claim to have imposed the tax and would charge the republicans with having prevented its being collected, and in States where the tax was unpopular it would point out the failure to appropriate money to enforce the law as its own act. Those are some of the reasons why republicans will aid in getting that appropriation through, rather than join in putting obstructions in its way.

The troubles growing out of the repeal of the reciprocity clause of the McKinley tariff law have only just begun, as the administration is now finding out. France and Austria have unofficially intimated their intention to follow the example of Spain and retaliate upon the United States if some modification of the sugar schedule of the tariff law cannot be secured. As there isn't the slightest probabilty that any modification can be gotten through Congress at this session the outlook for more retaliation is promising—entirely too promising.

January 8th has been set for the hearing of arguments on the demurrer filed by the Department of Justice in the suit brought to test the constitutionality of the income tax. If the demurrer be sustained and the suit be thrown out on the technicalities raised, steps for the beginning of a new suit against which those technicalities will not count, will at once be taken.

Representative Tom Johnson, of Ohio, although himself a democrat, says that so far as the financial system of the country is concerned, the democrats in Congress are all eligible for membership in a club of cranks, to which he belongs, which makes the only requisite for joining a failure to agree with any other member.

It has been whispered around in inside circles that Mr. Cleveland has lost faith in the Carlisle currency bill and that he believes, and has so expressed himself to a personal friend, that the republicans would be more satisfactory to him and to the country. He may or may not have done either, but there can be no doubt of the ability of the republicans to get up a better bill.

Good Bye, 1894!

The old year—1894—has passed away and the child of the father is with us. When we look back over the past twelve months and remember all the vicissitudes of fortune that have come and gone with the people of the United States, and not only the United States, but all the world over, we are constrained to breathe a silent prayer and say "Thank God we are still alive," and murmur a prayer of hope that the New Year just begun today may be a year not fraught with such a multiplicity of dark clouds of every description; but, that with its dawning this morning it marked the sunrise of an era of prosperity and good that shall be but in its meridian when the new year, then grown old, shall fade away in the past and give place to its successor—young 1896.

Looking backward, it would be difficult, in fact, almost an impossibility, to even attempt to tell the one one-hundredth part of what has happened during the past year, but the little we may be able to tell will give an idea of the appalling character of the times we have passed through, Business, everyone knows, has been dull, but did anyone even imagine that over one hundred banks and business firms failed during the year, the individual loss of not one being less than five hundred thousand dollars? and the aggregate loss over one hundred million? Over one hundred casualties occurred with a total loss of life of near fourteen hundred. There were over one hundred murders and fifteen lynchings. A score of large fires entailed a loss of twenty million dollars and one hundred and twenty-six towns were either wholly or partially destroyed by the flames. Over one hundred strikes made up the list of industrial strife and these involved the homes and happiness of almost one million laboring men and entailed a loss of many millions of dollars. The death list numbers on its roll some three-score prominent residents of the United States among whom can be mentioned such men as Geo. W. Childs, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Robert Louis Stevenson and our own immortal "War Governor," Andrew Gregg Curtin. These are but few of the things that did happen. In the political world was witnessed one of the most remarkable convulsions of modern times, and thus the world has rolled around and truly can we say "we are living in a fast age."

But, though a retrospect of the past is dark and forbidding, we bid all hope for the future. There is not a dark cloud but has some silver lining. The sun never sets but to rise again, and we never endure a season of poverty, distress and affliction but what a refreshing season of prosperity and happiness is sure to follow. So cheer up and have faith and, hope, remembering that God's ways are not our ways, and that he at all times doeth things for the best.

The Oil Product.

The Oil City Derrick has the following The year of 1894 will place to its credit a total production of 30,000,000 barrels of oil from the Pennsylvania fields. This is only three quarters of a million barrels short of the production of 1893. But while the producer sold his oil at an average price of 64 cents in 1893, the oil he produced in 1894 brought him in over 84 cents a barrel. About 2,000 new wells were drilled in 1893, while 3,900 or nearly double the number, were completed in 1894. The demand for Pennsylvania oil showed no diminishment during the year having aggregated over 36,000,000 barrels in 1893 and a few thousand barrels more in 1894. The redrction in the net stocks in the custody of the various pipe lines was over 5,000,000 barrels. In these figures be read the cause of the oil producer's prosperity and the reasons for a general rejoicing throughout the oil regions to-day.

The home is for indigent commercial travelers and provision will be made for there widows and orphans. Their children will be educated and a hospital will be maintained for the injured and afflicted.

The New Century.

The New Century is an unpartisan unsectarian paper published monthly from No. 1 Beacon Street, Boston, in the interest of the Lyceum League of America, which was organized about three years ago to promote intelligent practical patriotism among the youth of America. The New Century makes no distinction of sex or race, of country creed or color in its consideration of the rights and duties of American citizenship. It advocates the civil supremacy of this Government over all persons who enjoy the protection of our flag. Under the new constitution of the Lyceum League of America any society club or association devoted to similar objects may join the League with but little modification of its by-laws.

Lyceums of this League are scattered throughout every state and territory. Their work is on the general plan of the old New England Debating Lyceum, which developed the forensic talents of so many of her public men. The hearty encouragement given the Lyceum League of America indicates that the revival of the old Debating Lyceum is widely welcomed.

The Tornado.

There are five special featuress in the way of scenic and mechanical effects in Lincoln J. Carter's new production, "The Tornado," and many plays have "starred" as their sole "great triumph" an effect which did not compare to any one of these five. The scene of "The Tornado" in the first act, the collision of two great ocean liners in the second act, the half dozen sailors on the yardarm of a swaying mast furling a monster sail at a dizzy height above the deck of a ship in the very teeth of a furious gale, also a feature of the second act. The night scene of Chicago Harbor, showing with accuracy the famous masonic temple, the Auditorium, the street Viaduct and Chicago's vast water front, in the third act; the dissecting room in a medical college in the fourth act, and the beautiful autumn setting of the fifth act, all go to make the most elaborately staged production of melodrama ever seen in America. Lincoln J. Carter and "The Tornado" are a huge success, and should find a large audience awaiting them at the Garman opera house on the evening of January 8th.

Prof. Ammerman Married.

We have thus far omitted to mention the fact of the marriage of the principal of Bellefonte High School, Prof. S. Lewis Ammerman, who was united in wedlock with Miss Sallie Eva Major, at the residence of her father, Mr. Jessie W. Major 45 Cattell street, Easton, Pa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. F. Fisher, of St. Paul's Lutheran church Miss Sula B. Major, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and the groomsman was Mr. J. Milton Ammerman, of [illegible]ville. The Allentown violin and guitar [illegible] rendered the wedding march for the occasion. There were three ushers and Miss Aggie A. Raub acted as flower girl. A reception followed the wedding ceremony and guests were present from Easton, Danville, Bellefonte, New York, Philadelphia, Stroudsburg, Williamsport, Trenton, Ransville, Pen Argyl and Irwin. The happy couple went on a brief wedding trip and are expected in Bellefonte on Friday. Congratulations.

RHEUMATISM PREVALENT.

Caused by the Sudden Changes of Temperature.

Rheumatism is more prevalent here than ever before. When this disease fastens upon an individual with its soreness and pain, swelling the joints rendering him helpless in his movements, he is indeed an object of pity. The slight pain in the back, pain or stiffness of the joints or muscles, is a warning indication of an impoverished condition of the blood, a low state of health, and if not attended to at once, means rheumatism. Rheumatism can now be cured.

Since the introduction of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, there has been fewer sufferers. Favorite Remedy drives out rheumatic posion from the blood, restores the circulation, strengthens the nerve power. The best proof of the valor, is the good it has done.

"I was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism for fifteen years," writes Mr. E. P. Tayer, of East Nassau, N. Y. "So severe that I was supposed to be a cripple for life. Under physicians treatment I grew worse. Dr. Kennedy's Remedy helped me from the time I first used it, and entirely cured me."

The beautiful daughter of Mr. James McFarland, DeMoins, Ia., was helpless for months with sciatic rheumatism. After a few doses of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, she began to grow better, appetite improved, slept well, and continuing its use, was cured.

Mr. G. Lansing, of Troy, N. Y., had rheumatism so bad that he had to be turned over in bed. After using Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy but a short while was restored to health. Why then suffer with rheumatism or neuralgia? This medicine will help you.

M. P. TUTEN,
Proprietor.

TWO GENERATIONS have passed since Oliver Wendell Holmes leaped into sudden fame by his plea for "Old Ironsides," that saved her "tattered ensign" from degradation. The old ship was not broken up; she is still afloat, and Congress, at the last session, made an appropriation to have her fitted up for use as a practical ship for the Naval Reserves. It is now proposed to do more than this, to refit the Constitution for actual service in the regular navy. Of course such service could be only ornamental, the day for wooden sailing ships for warlike purposes having long gone by. There would be a sentimental interest attaching to the historic old cruiser, however, if she could be restored to her original condition, as a sort of monument of the old navy, but as the cost is estimated at some $300,000, it is doubtful if Congress will see the necessity for it at this time, whatever the report of the Board of Survey that has gone to examine the old hull at the Portsmouth navy yard.

Before a Full Head of Steam is gathered by that tremendously destructive engine, malaria, put on the brakes with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will check its progress and advert disaster. Chills and fever, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake are promptly relieved and ultimately cured by this genial specific, which is a comprehensive family medicine, speedily useful in cases of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, sick headache, nervousness, rheumatism and neuralgia. Against the hurtful effects of sudden changes of temperature, exposure in wet weather, close application to laborious mental pursuits, and other influences prejudical to health, it is a most trustworthy safeguard. It fortifies the system against disease, promotes appetite and sleep, and hastens convalescence after debilitating and flesh wasting diseases.

The Golden Star

Gold Mining Company

OF MONTANA.

Capital $300,000 divided into 300,000 shares of $1 par value each.

Non-assessable forever.

This company owns two gold mines located in a county which produced $40,000,000 in gold in six years. Has 45 acres of virgin land. Has 500 feet of underground work in shape of shafts and tunnels. Has ore in sight worth $100 per ton. Has assays from $25 to $1,500 per ton. Has shipped ore netting $36 per ton. Has such a small capitalization, only 300,000 shares and not 2,000,000 shares as other companies.

The company intends to sink a shaft through this rich $100 ore vein to a depth of several hundred feet, in order to be able to produce largely for the benefit of the stockholders which will get this profit in large monthly dividends. Hence the company offers a small amount of its stock at the extremely low price of 40 cents a share.

These shares are the investment on the financial market to-day and are better than Government Bonds as they will pay bigger interest.

Industrial Statistics.

The publication of the annual or biennial reports of the State Labor Bureaus and the Federal census figures makes possible a comparison of the industrial conditions in some of the States and of facts relating to the workingman. Only general deductions can be drawn, however, as some of the reports have been delayed for many months and the facts and figures they contain relate to a past year, while other reports are printed and distributed promptly. A reform in this respect should be insisted upon and arrangements made or an early publication of reports in order that the public may have the full benefit of the information gathered. Another fact that detracts from the value of these reports is the failure of many establishments to send in returns.

Among the publications issued this year are those from New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio and Missouri. The first two are counted among the smaller Eastern States and are principally engaged in manufacturing, while the last two are generally classed as Western States in which agriculture is still largely followed. The leading industry of New Hampshire is cotton manufacturing, 15,072 persons being employed in the establishments reporting, of whom 6618 were males and 8454 were females. The annual wages paid amounted to $5,125,139.56, or an average to each employee of $1.09 a day. Mixed textiles employed 1473 males and 2210 females and paid out $1,259,520 in wages, the average per day per person being the same as in cotton manufacturing. The woolen industries employed 2098 persons at an average wage per day of $1.20. These three industries represent three-fifths of the capital invested in manufacturing and reporting to the bureau.

New Jersey has about five times the population of New Hampshire, but according to the Federal census returns the former State has only three times as many persons employed in manufacture and pays four times as much in wages as the latter State. The total employees and wages for the two States are as follows: New Jersey—Wages, $96,509,703; employees, 186,901. New Hampshire—Wages, $24,248,054; employees, 63,361. New Jersey had 106,282 men and boys above 16 years of age employed in its manufacturing establishments with a yearly average of earnings of $554, and 33,022 women and girls above 15 years of age earning an annual average of $274, according to the census figures, but the State bureau report puts the yearly average for women at $265. The daily hours for work for women average in New Jersey about ten and a half. It seems that the average wages per hand in New Jersey is $123 higher than in New Hampshire, but the annual earnings of women and girls above 15 years of age average $18 more in New Hampshire than in New Jersey.

About Potatoes.

Since we raise and eat potatoes, it is well enough to know something about them. When America was discovered, the potato was cultivated in all the temperate parts of South America, but not in Mexico Hieronymous Cardon, a Spanish priest, is believed to have introduced the plant in Europe. From Spain it went into Italy, and thence to Belgium. Some years later it was introduced into Virginia, and specimens were brought into Ireland about 1690. For nearly a hundred years it was cultivated very little in Great Britian. In 1690 the Royal society urged its cultivation, but it is only within the last century and a half that it has been a common vegetable there. But the sweet potato was brought into England in 1573, and was called the "common potato" as early as 1597, when the white potato was first described in an English book.

Nail Works Burned.

The Van Alen Brother's nail works at Northumberland were destroyed by fire last Saturday. The blaze started in the engine room, and the packing room, ware house, rolling mill, nail factory and the entire machine shop were totally destroyed. In the warehouse there were 40,000 kegs of nails, every one of which was burned and the nails ruined. The loss on this stock is $50,000. The total loss is $100,000 with $55,000 insurance. The Van Alen mill was built in 1865, and has been run continuously ever since. It was the only industry in Northumberland and employed 250 men and boys, who will be thrown out of employment.

AN Engineer in the Lackawanna Colliery, near Olyphant, Pa., did a gallent act on Friday night. Finding his engines room, at the foot of the air shaft, in flame Frank Bennie, the hero, instead of seeking his own safety, dashed along a smoky gangway, almost one third of a mile, to warn 13 miners of their peril. Escape being seemingly cut off for all hands, they constructed a barrier to the advancing smoke and gas by means of boards, culm and their coats, and awaited their rescuers, who arrived nine hours later, having extinguished the fire and the smoke having dissipated itself. Bennie's bravery was matched by the cowardice of the firemen of Peckville, a near-by village, who refused to assist in the rescue because the night was bitter cold. Bennie deserves to be remembered substantially for his manly and courageous behavior. Such gallantry is of the highest type of devotion which one can show for the fellow men.

Board of Trade.

The Bellefonte Board of Trade was not able to hold a meeting on Tuesday night because there was not a quorum of members present, there being only eight there all told. But if the additional 80 or so members had been there it might have been possible to have done some work o more importance than has yet been accomplished. All action that could be taken by those present was given the best attention, and from this meeting may yet result something of vital importance to the citizens of Bellefonte and community. The project is not yet mature enough to give an outline, even, of what it is, but it is to be hoped that the same may prove a success. It is to be hoped that when the next meeting night of the Board of Trade comes around every member will be present.

The Reasons For its Great Success.

The remarkable success of Saroney's living pictures, of which so much is being said by the press and public, is due, in our opinion, more to its high character and its refined treatment of well-chosen subjects than to its novelty and originality, though these latter are not to be considered lightly by any means.

By some subtle touch the pictures are made to carry at once an expression of loveliness which appeals, to our enthusiastic administration, and of delicacy and refinement which compels our profound respect. They are of such variety that no cultivated taste can fail of finding in them something almost magically fascinating. There are interesting to all, young and old and it is little wonder they have been and are still being so generously praised.

Looking for Nail Mill Property.

The Van Allen brothers whose nail mill property in Northumberland was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon, are looking around for a nail mill site. They have in mind the idle nail mill properties at Sunbury and Danville. Cannot Bellefonte present her advantages to these gentlemen?

THE cashier of the Central National Bank of Rome, N. Y., has gone wrong, and the bank is short $27,000. The defaulting cashier dealt in stocks, got on the wrong side of the market, and all the rest of the oft-repeated tale. The unusual feature of the Rome defalcation is that Bank Examiner, J. Van Vranken, suspected something was wrong before the bank was entirely looted and by coming back to look further into the matter when he wasn't expected verified his suspicions.

The cashier's deal in stocks with the bank's money is not to be commended, but the Bank Examiner's diligence in hunting for and discovering the shortage while there was some money left in the bank is, and if other Bank Examiners will imitate his methods it will be worth money to other depositors and stockholders. Examiner Van Vranken seems to be an examiner who examines.

About Selling Cider.

The owner of a cider mill in Bedford county, Pa., recently disposed of some of the surplus stock which had become "hard." Subsequently he was charged with violating the law as to the sale of intoxicants and convicted. In expounding the law the judge said the act of assembly in prohibiting the sale of liquor without license, etc., makes no mention of cider, but prohibits the sale of liquors that are spirituous or vinous, and those that are malt and brewed. Cider being neither malt or brewed, must be classed as spirituous or vinous, or it would not be classed with the act. Judge Peck charged in substance that if fermentation had taken place to such an extent that the sugar in the apple juice had become charged into alcohol, the cider was then vinous and within the act, no matter how small the percentage of alcohol might be; and the fact that the cider was intoxicating, if proved, would be good evidence of the fact that alcohol was present in the cider, and therefore vinous. This case is important for the reason that it will settle a doubt in the minds of a large number of persons who make cider as to their making themselves criminally liable for the sale of it.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Delevan House Fatalities.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 1.—The list of fatalities in the Delevan House fire remains the same as reported last night. This morning Kate Crowley, one of the servants thought to have been burned, turned up, but another, Mary Fitzgibbons, is missing, and it is believed that she met her death in the fire. This makes the death list foot up to seventeen. No attempt has yet been made to search the ruins, the police disclaiming it to be their duty. The proprietors of the burned hotel lost all, and and are taking no steps to look for the bodies.

St. Jacobs Oil THE GREAT REMEDY CURES ALL PAINS OF MAN & BEAST

—Ice cutting has begun and everybody who has an ice house is now trying to get it filled for fear there will be no more ice this winter.

—Sleighing is now better than it has been for several years, and the manufacturers of sleighs and sleds ought to be reaping a harvest.

—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union celebrated its 21st anniversary on December 23rd. It, having now attained its majority, should be old enough to vote.

—Skating is now excellent and every boy and girl who is lucky enough to own a pair of skates are out enjoying this exhiliarating and pleasant, even though it is cold, pastime.

—The Presbyterian Sunday school held quite a pleasing entertainment and festival in the chapel on Tuesday evening. Confectionery and fruit were freely distributed among the members.

—A loaded coal car was shoved again the bumper at Rhoads' coal yard this morning. The bumper held solid but the tressle gave away and the car crashed through to the bottom, leaving it in bad shape for unloading.

—We acknowledge receipt of a copy of Vol. 1, No. 1, of "The Editor," a publication designed specially for the newspaper and magazine writers. It is an interesting and worthy sheet of eighteen pages and should find a place on every writer's table. It is published by The Editor Publishing Co., Franklin, Ohio, at the low price of only fifty cents per year.

—Lincoln J. Carter, the successful young author and manager of "The Fast Mail," announces as his second bid for public approval, "The Tornado," and recognizing that much of his great success with his first play was due to the fact that he always kept faith with the public he has adopted as a trade mark this motto, "To hold, as well as win success, keep all your play-bill promises."

—By their fair and festival in Temple Court last week the Logan Steam Fire Engine company made about one hundred and twentyfive dollars. This was a small sum—entirely too small—but, considering the kind of weather there was the company hardly expected to do better. There was a fair attendance at their annual New Year's Eve ball Monday night. Prior to the ball the Logans with the Bellefonte and Undine bands, steamer and hook and ladder truck gave a parade.

—Company G, Fifth regiment, of Lewistown, leads that regiment in figures of efficiency according to the fall inspection report by the Adjutant General for the year 1894, and is now entitled to possess the Hastings trophy bestowed by Governor Hastings when colonel of that regiment, upon the company having the best average, and which is now held by Company A, of Huntingdon. The Lewistown company has been carrying the marksmanship badge for the past year, bestowed for the best record in rifle practice in 1893.

—Why is it that men and women will go right on walking on railroad tracks, trying to jump on moving trains, kindling fires with the help of coal oil, filling burning lamps, fooling with loaded revolvers and doing other careless and foolish things that so often result in permanent mutilation or a terrible death? Can it be that we are not really free agents? Is it possible that we are the victims of a grim and remorseless someone who influences us, irresistably to carelessness? Is it not more likely that each person who does a foolish thing believes all human beings except himself liable to accident?

—It may be that there are superstitious people who still believe that there is a direct relation between a green Christmas and a full churchyard. Of course there is nothing in the adage or will not be if every city and homestead pay full attention to sanitary precautions. Cold does not kill all germs. The typhoid microbe will live in snow and ice, and when cold weather comes smallpox flourishes best. A mild winter may lead to earlier decomposition in cellar and back yard and so produce more marked ailment. The way to provide against them is cleanliness, and a green Christmas will have no terror.

—John Hutchinson, of of Warriorsmark valley's best known farmers, after an illness of six months from a complication of disease, died at 11 o'clock Friday morning at his farm one fourth of a mile from Warriorsmark. Deceased was a member of the Methodist church, and a man of excellent character who was held in high esteem. He is the last of his immediate family, his three brothers and three sisters having preceded him to the tomb. His wife passed away about a year ago, and he is survived by the following children: Harry and Elmer, of Altoona; Mrs. Mary Spencer, Miss Annie, John and Roy, of Warriorsmark township. Mr. Hutchison was aged 72 years, 4 months and 1 day.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Held by Gregg Post in Honor of Ex-Governor Curtin.

On Friday evening about four hundred citizens assembled in the new armory to take part in the memorial services held by Gregg Post in honor of the late War Governor, Hon. Andrew G. Curtin. The interior of the large building was beautifully and appropriate decorated for the occasion. On the stage sat Gen. Beaver, who presided at the meeting, Gen. Hastings, Dr. Atherton and Prof. Hamilton. In the rear sat a large delegation of members of Gregg Post, in full G. A. R. uniform. Company B, in uniform and under command of Lieut W. F. Reeder. The services of the evening were opened with the singing of a beautiful anthem entitled "Nearer My God to Thee," by a choir composed of Misses Mary Meek, Fannie Twitmire, Aurora Moore, Laura Rumberger, and Messrs. C. C. Shuey, Lee B. Woodcock, Geo. Smith and A. Lukenbach.

Following the music Gen. Beaver introduced Gen. D. H. Hastings as the first speaker of the evening, who paid a glowing tribute to the life, character and memory of the dead Governor. Following Gen. Hastings the quartette of ladies rendered a very beautiful piece of music and then Prof. Hamilton was introduced. He read a very interesting and cultured paper bringing to light many valuable historical facts in connection with the life of Governor Curtin heretofore unknown by the general public.

After another piece of music by the male quartette Col. J. L. Spangler was introduced, who dwelt at length upon the social life and qualities of Mr. Curtin. The next speaker was Dr. George W. Atherton and he paid a tribute to the momory of our late esteemed citizen such as is seldom paid to the memory of any man.

Gen. Beaver closed the meeting with a brief speech in which he spoke of the erection of a suitable monument to the "Old War Governor." He asked the question of Gregg Post if they were ready to go to work and push the movement at once. The Post voted aye to a man. The same question was then put to the audience and they also voted unanimously in favor of doing so. So that the matter of having a monument is now settled. The committee appointed some time ago will go to work at once and solicit subscriptions for such a purpose.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the doxology and the benediction by Rev. Zehner.

It might just here be said that Company B nor Gregg Post were not responsible for the uncomfortably cold condition of the Armory. There was a bursted steam pipe which the plumbers had promised to have fixed, but failed to do so, and this accounted for the coldness of the room.

The Bellefonte Academy Examinations.

The several departments of the Academy closed this week for the Christmas vacation. The fall session has been probably the most successful one of many years. The rolls show a larger attendance than usual and particularly of students from the towns in the county, who are enabled to take advantage of the Academy instruction by reason of the low students rates offered on the railroads. The thoroughness of the intellectual work done which has even been the characteristic of the Bellefonte Academy and has given it an even rank with the best preparatory schools in the country was forcibly demonstrated by the examinations held this week. Many of the patrons and friends of the school were present and one and all have united in their expressions of pleasure and satisfaction with all the examinations. Among the visitors might be mentioned Mrs. Judge Furst, Mrs. Mary Blanchard, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. James Potter, Mrs. Kephart, Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Isaac Mitchell, Mrs. Munson, Mrs. Case, Dr. William Laurie and John Blanchard, Esq. The departments visited were the English under Miss Reed's supervision; the Mathematics under the direction of the principal, Rev. J. P. Hughes; the Classical under Mr. J. R. Hughes' care and the primary in which Miss Williamson is the teacher. The latter is a new teacher here, having come in September last but with an experience gained in the excellent schools of New Jersey that told in her work at the Academy and convinced the patrons that she was the right teacher in the right place. The other teachers need no words of eulogy. Their good work in the past years has appeared in the superior records made by the Academy students at Harvard, Princeton, Wellesley, Brynmawr, Lafayette, Haverford, State College, Annapolis and other institutions of prominence. With but ordinary facilities the Academy has done such premium work in the past, now with the increased advantage of steam heat which has been put in the school rooms and the house and which will be enjoyed for the first time in the January term, we may hope for even better things if possible. Let it be remembered by all who desire a thorough preparatory education for college, business or teaching, that it can be secured here in Bellefonte and at a small price—the same education hundreds are obliged to secure away from home at a cost of several hundred dollars annually. We are glad to know that several new students have already spoken for seats for the next term.

State Revenues and the Farmers.

Real estate is not taxed in this State for State purposes, and the report of the State Treasurer embraces no item covering a land tax, as there is no such thing, but the holders of farms and other properties who pay for the maintenance of schools, bridges, roads and like items of county control and government, will be surprised to learn that the corporations they so frequently charge with escaping tax exactions by only a nominal figure, actually paid in during the past year the handsome aggregate of $3,600,000 and in addition a tax on corporation loans amounting to $1,241,00.

Here is a return of $4 841,000, more than half the income at the command of the State, and it should satisfy the farmers that there are burdens to-day equal to those they bear and complain about having the State revenue mark. A State revenue law that will equalize taxation is part of the work before the next Legislature, and it is likely that the measure will contain a number of the features demanded by the recent State Grange convention, but if the farmers are casting about for real relief they must attempt reform in the county government under which they are assessed

Unequal assessments are common. A farm in Elk county, as an example, is rated at $26 an acre, while an adjoining farm in Jefferson is valued at $80. It appears as if the State was rather guiltless of imposing unjust burdens, while the County Commissioners, who declare the mill tax rate, and the local assessors, who value the farms, are the right parties to call to account.

The State distributed the sum of $5,769,147 among the school districts this year, an excess of $904,000 over the previous year, and there was returned to the various counties in 1893 the sum of $3,018,000 of the revenues collected from the tax on personal property, and these items alone should weigh in a remarkable degree in county expenditures.

A Legend of the Mistletoe.

Shakespeare certainly knew of the mistletoe legends, for he speaks emphatically of "baleful mistletoe," as do other writers of his day. Among the many legends told this has no tragic feature. A prince is the hero, and he got separated from his friends while hunting. He wandered about for a long period and finally discovered an humble cottage. Here he took shelter for a time and fell in love with the occupant's lovely daughter. His identity was not suspected, and owing to his shabby appearance resulting from his long wandering he was regarded as an undesirable suitor and was summarily ejected. Broken hearted, he again resumed his apparently endless journey and at night slept under an oak tree. There a good fairy told him that a twig of mistletoe would reconcile the irate parent to the match, but it must be gathered from a hollow oak tree growing by the side of a stream opposite a peculiarly dwarfed weeping willow.

In the morning he was preparing to search for the tree, but found, to his delight, that it was evidently the one he had been sleeping under. Climbing to the topmost branches, he found the mistletoe, tore it off, and descended the tree in triumph. He found the cottage without difficulty, presented his peace offering and was promptly given the young lady, with whom he returned to the palace, where he lived the remainder of his life in the usual legendary condition of bliss. The story is told in other ways, but the power of the mistletoe is enlarged upon, and the ending is always happy.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Adjutant General's report gives the rating of percentage for efficiency for Company B at 85.54,* only two other companies in the regiment having a higher rating. This is an excellent showing, considering that the company was reorganized just about a month previous to the annual encampment.

—Daniel Peters has been appointed postmaster at Strunktown, this county.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 569 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

THE SNOW STORM.

The First Big Fall of the Season.

It began snowing Wednesday evening about five o'clock, but no one then anticipated much of a snow storm. The feathery flakes came down fine, fast and furious, and, although everybody expected it would soon be over, especially as it began to blow and storm about six o'clock, yet it continued to fall all night without cessation and this morning there was a sight to behold. About fifteen inches of "the beautiful" covered the ground and it was still snowing fast as ever.

The heavy winds during the night had blown the feathery flakes into huge drifts and some places the snow was filled three feet deep on the pavements. It was almost impossible for pedestrians to get along until sidewalks had been shoveled off and made passable.

Throughout the county roads are drifted shut and farmers are almost blockaded. Railroads were drifted shut and all traffic was blocked, the trains being hours late At this writing, 9 o'clock, the snow is still falling fast as ever and it is hard to tell when it will stop. It is the biggest storm we have had for a long time.

Triplets Twice.

A special to the Philadelphia Inquirer from New York, Dec. 23, says: At No. 104 Monroe street, on the top floor of a lofty tenement, live Mr. and Mrs A. Klein and their children. When the sun arose two weeks ago to-day the number of the Klein children was four. When the sun set the list had been increased to seven. Since Mr. and Mrs. Klein were married in January, 15 years ago, they have been blessed with fourteen children.

It was no particular surprise to the Kleins that when two weeks ago a pretty little girl baby made her appearance, she should be accompanied into this cold and cruel world by two brothers, because a nearly similar affair occurred six years ago. This first cherubic trio did not, however, live long, but the loss of the first triplets was in a measure compensated for three years latter by the arrival of twins. The happy father refused an offer of $100 for permission to inspect the three latest arrivals because they are so small.

To Make a Test.

The Pennsylvania railroad is about to test the merits of a railway electric light system by running a train equipped with the apparatus from New York to Washington. Railway trains are, as a rule, not sufficiently lighted for the comfort of those who travel by night and desire to read enroute. If passenger trains on railways operated by steam can be brilliantly illuminated by electricity a great convience will be added to the otherwise splendidly appointed passenger service of our leading American lines. It is also believed that the electric light would remove the danger of conflagrations in case of disasters to trains. It is only a question of time when our passenger cars will be as well lighted as our homes.

Weary of Waiting for Her Lover.

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 25.—After years of vain waiting for her lover to return to her, hope died to-day and, to end her sorrow, Miss Miller, an aged spinster, shot herself in the head and inflicted a mortal wound. One Christmas, long ago, Miss Miller's lover left her, and as the day came with each recurring year the sorrowing woman has had a feast prepared, and has sat awaiting the man who has never returned. The disappointment of succeeding years proved too much to-day and Miss Miller sought to escape her grief by death.

A Pennsy Employe's Gift.

Newark, N. J. December 26.—James R. Smith, for years a division superintendent and for forty-five years and six months an employe of the Pennsylvania railroad, got a Christmas present in the shape of a retirement from active service from January 1, 1895, with full pay. Mr. Smith has never lost a day's time during his long service. The presentation took place at the home of Bernard S. Shanley, where Mr. Smith was taking his usual Christmas dinner. He was also presented with a gold chain by Mrs. Shanley and with a cane made of wood from the Holy Land by Mr. Shanley.

Where is James Tahaney.

Parkersburg, W. Va., December 26.—Mrs. Tahaney, wife of James Tahaney died in this city Sunday and her husband started Sunday night with the body for Chicago where it was to be buried. Tahaney telegraphed to Chicago lodge, A. O. H., to meet him at the train and assist in the burial ceremony. The casket containing the corpse arrived in due time, but Tahaney could not be found on the train, and all inquiries by Chicago people failed to find a clue. Tahaney's relatives have searched for him without avail. They fear he has been foully dealt with or that he fell off the train.

Election Frauds in St. Louis.

St. Louis December 26.—The grand jury to-day made its final report returning 173 indictments, fifty-four of which are for alleged election frauds. Henry Troll, sheriff-elect, is indicted for alleged bribery in paying money to influence election judges. The other election indictments are mainly against the lower element, and much surprise and disappointment is expressed that the grand jury did not gather in its net higher and more important game. The grand jury reports that the city institutions are unfit for human habitation.

Mr. Hicks' Copyright Bill.

Representative Hicks has been subjected to a good deal of incontemperate abuse for having brought before the House of Representatives a very meritorious measure. There is a hole in the otherwise excellent copyright law of 1891 which permits a good deal of sharp practice and in justice by some not over scrupulous publishers, and Mr. Hicks proposes to stop up that hole and secure fair play for all.

The present copyright law gives foreign authors and artists copyright protection in this country provided their works are printed from type set in the United States or from plates or drawings on stone made within the United States or from drawings made therefrom. The importing of books, chromos, lithographs, photographs so copyrighted is prohibited. There is no such requirement for engravings or etchings. They may be copyrighted even though the engraved or etched plate is made abroad. From this gap in the law a very annoying abuse has arisen. Certain publishers make a habit of importing plates of etchings and engravings which are made cheaply by process, and immediately copyrighted American newspapers which reproduce these foreign pictures which come to them in their exchanges using American plates are at once threatened with a lawsuit by the firm which has copyrighted a foreign plate.

There is no equity in this. It is in direct conflict with the purposes of the copyright law. Mr. Hicks' amendment makes etchings and engravings subject to the same conditions as chromos, photographs and lithographs. The purpose is to allow all American papers equal liberty to reproduce what has already been published abroad subject to the privilege of American copyright when printed from plates made in this country. If the language used would interfere with bona fide works of etchers and drawers in Europe working exclusively for American publications it is open to amendment to avoid that objection without giving any American publication a monopoly of reproducing pictures that are already in every large newspaper office in the country.

The Hicks bill aims at a distinct abuse. If some of its provisions seem to go beyond that they can be curtailed. We trust Mr. Hicks will not allow himself to be intimidated, but will stand firmly by his very just and timely measure.

The Mill Hall Brick Works.

The erection of the new building of the Mill Hall brick works is progressing rapidly, and every advantage possible is being taken of the favorable weather for out door work. The frame work of the main building is up and the roofing of galvanized iron is being put on to day. The engines were returned to the works yesterday after having been thoroughly overhauled at the machine shops. It is expected that the works will be ready for operations by March 1st.

Keep Before the Public.

This is what Peter Cooper, who died worth many millions, said of a newspaper. "In all towns where a newspaper is published every man should advertise in it if nothing more than a card stating his name and the business he is engaged in It does not only pay the advertiser, but lets people at a distance know that the town in which you reside is a prosperous community of business men. Never pull down your sign while you expect to do business.

Send Them in Early.

All societies adopting resolutions of any character, which they desire to have published, must send them in as soon as the action is taken. Several resolutions of respect have been sent to this office recently which were adopted severel weeks after the person had died. All our readers can see the annoyance of giving space to that which is old, when later news would be much more appreciated.

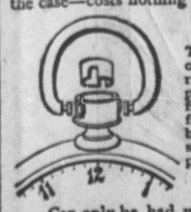

Lost the Suit.

At Williamsport Friday the case of Mrs. Martha L. Kennedy, who brought suit to recover $20,000 damages against the borough of Jersey Shore for alleged injuries sustained by falling against a metal drain on the sidewalks of that place, was tried. The jury decided against the woman by rendering a verdict in favor of the borough.

George Patterson writes to the editor of Word and Works asking some pertinent questions as follows:

On reading your Christmas notes, thought came to me why this necessity for so much charity, why so much distinction in God's creatures. Why in this land of unbounded wealth and endless resources are so many at starvation's door, and a few thousand rolling in wealth not knowing how to spend the same? Why are so many idle when there is so much to do? Are soup houses and charities the best way to maintain the labor element of society? What is the necessity for such a state of affairs in this or any nation at any time? There can be but one answer to these questions. Vicious legislation. Why is the church lying supinely on her back while these things exist, not even making a protest. Does she think that a few alms about Christmas will atone for her silence when such evils exist in the land. The church was commanded to cry aloud and spare not, to Judah their sins and Isreal their transgressions. The cry is hushed by liberal gifts from the oppressors. The poor gets the benefits of the denunciations from the pulpit. They pray heaven and vote hell for the poor.

This is the result of centralization of wealth; how is it in the rural home where there are no presents, where the bare necessities of life can hardly be procured, where hay and flax straw have to take the place of coal, where dried wheat takes the place of coffee, where there are no luxuries, where old clothes have to be remade instead of new ones, where the homes of the patriot's children are being taken from them by corporate greed, by the aid of laws enacted by the votes of those same church benevolent people. Give the people work and good pay and there will be little call for soup houses and charitable institutions. I long for the time when the press of the country can open its sealed lips in defence of the poor and needy, and not in defence of the plutocratic few. The bloody period that must soon be precipitated on this country might be averted if the church as a whole would awake to see the true conditions of the land, and the people shake off the vice-grip money has on them. The freedom of the masses from the power of the classes is the only salvation of this country.

The race war now on in Brooks County, Ga., is a discouraging illustration of the state of semi-civilization that prevails in that neighborhood. Whether there is anything back of the murder of the white constable by the colored man, with which crime the present trouble began, is not known, but in avenging it and the murder of a second white man the whites are taking methods which are sure to react on themselves. The negroes are banding together, and while they may be cowed for the present the lesson in lawlessness the whites are teaching them is sure to bear bitter fruit in the future. It was at Quitman, in Brooks County, that a school for colored young men and women was burned to the ground ten years ago by white incendiaries. There was no doubt then and there is none now that the building was destroyed because white prejudice was opposed to allowing the colored race school facilities superior to the white race. although the properety had been given for the purpose by a Northern woman, and the school was supported by Northern contributions. The act of lawlessness taught the negroes a lesson in crime they have never forgotten, and the whites are now reaping the result.

The dedication of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga Military Park, which is fixed by act of Congress for the 19th and 20th of next September, will be an imposing and grand affair. The President and his Cabinet, Congress, the Supreme Court, the Commander of the army and the Admiral of the navy, the Governors of the States and the survivors of the armies that took part in the two great battles fought there are expected to be present. This is the first of the Military park projects carried on to the point of completion. There will be others in due course, and it is fit that this dedication should be an impressive historic event. The memories of the war which ceremonies of this sort revive are not bitter, but quite the reverse. The one-time foes are brought together for a common purpose and moved by a common sympathy and tenderness for the past. Animosities are buried, and the brave deeds done there by both sides are recalled to memory. Congress has appropriated some $600,000 to secure and put in shape the land on which the battles of Chickamauga and Chattanooga were fought. It is money well bestowed, and we hope that Congress will show a like liberal and patriotic spirit in dealing with the battefield of Gettysburg

Robbed and Murdered.

Vienna, Dec. 26.—A land owner named Pemperl, his son, 10 years old, and a maid servant were murdered last evening in Ober Hollarbrunn, lower Australia, while they were trimming a Christmas tree. The murderer stole 1,500 florins and escaped. The police have no clue to his identity or whereabouts.

—Mrs. Amelia Harper was found dead on the floor of her home in Aaronsburg on Tuesday morning. She had suffered with cancer, but she was able to be about, as she had apparently been doing her morning work when death overtook her. A few friends who happened in found her shortly after life had fled.

—The funeral of Charles Lohr, who died on Monday at his home at Centre Hall, occurred on Thursday morning, December 20th, at 10 o'clock, from the M. E. Church at that place, and was very largely attended by sorrowing friends. Rev. Illingsworth, of the M. E. church, assisted by Rev. Eisenberg, of the Reformed church; Rev. Goodling, of the Evangelical, and Rev. Rearick, of the Lutheran church. The choir rendered some very appropriate music. Interment was made in the Centre Hall cemetery

—Our old friend, Z. S. Welsh, of Romola, has a turkey which has performed the extraordinary accomplishment of laying 16 eggs in November. On Thanksgiving day, having just finished her laying job, she commenced the hatching process and tended to that duty for one day but Mr. Welsh, thinking that it would be a bad time for young turkeys to come into this world of trouble, took her eggs away and the turkey mourned for several days her loss. Mr. Welsh thinks she must have been a republican turkey and was celebrating the late republican victories. But, perhaps, he only thought so because he is one of the most earnest republicans in the county.

—Justices of the Peace in several counties are moving to secure legislation at the coming session that will more clearly define their powers and enable the settlement of petty cases without returning them to court. That something of this kind is desirable will hardly be questioned. If successful, it would result in considerable relief to the Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions Courts and destroy one of the reasons presented by certain districts for the creation of additional Law Judgeships It is a fact that many cases are carried up to the courts in nearly all the districts that should never go there, and which would not if there were not fees in it for somebody.

GENERAL GRANT.

How Near His Personal Memoirs Came to be Lost.

A Valuable History Written by a Dying Man.—Proper Nourishment Enabled the Author to Live Until the Completion of His Book.

The fortitude shown by General Grant in writing the second volume of his personal memoirs while he was literally on his deathbed, excels even the remarkable courage exhibited by this famous soldier in his many achievements on the field of battle.

Col. Fred Grant, speaking of his father's last illness, says:—

"During the last four months of his sickness, the principal food of my father, Gen. Grant, was Bovinine and milk; and it was the use of this incomparable food alone that enabled him to finish the second volume of his personal memoirs."

Dr. T. H. Douglas, Gen. Grant's physician and friend, cordially indorsed the above statement.

What Bovinine did for Gen. Grant it has done, and is now doing, for thousands every day. It is the most wonderful concentration into a small bulk of all the life-giving, muscle, flesh, and blood-making elements of lean, raw meat ever produced.

It is in no way a medicine, simply a food invigorant, that by its strengthening qualities gives the worn-out or disordered vital centres of the body an impetus that again starts them performing their natural functions.

It is indorsed by eminent physicians everywhere, and blessed by thousands whose lives it has actually saved.

To neglect to use this wonderful food in all cases of debility, wasting diseases, overwork, stomach and nerve diseases, or for weak infants, chronic invalids, loss of vitality in old age, is to throw away one of the greatest chances of saving life.

Foster on the Weather.

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from 21st to 26th, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about 26th, across the western mountain country to close of 27th, the great central valleys from 28th to 30th, and the eastern states about the 31st. This disturbance will probably pass along or south of the fortieth parallel, and will be followed by a severe cold wave. Warm wave will cross the western mountain country about the 26th, the great central valleys about the 28th and the eastern states about the 30th. Cool wave will cross the western mountain country about the 89th, the great central valleys, well to southward, about the 31st and the eastern states about Jan. 2. A general forecast of January weather, for all parts of the United States, will be given in my next bulletin.

—In October last a spawl from a stone struck Washington McWilliams, of Ferguson township, Centre county, in the corner of one of his eyes; spawl was about an eighth of an inch in length and shaped like the point of a pocket knife blade, and imbedded itself in the white of the eye. It was removed but Mr. McWilliams suffered greatly from the injury, and the eye began to waste away, and the sight of i was lost. His other eye in sympathy began to suffer, and a short time ago he went to Philadelphia, where he now is, and the injured eye was removed. From latest information he had also lost the sight of the other eye and is now totally blind.

Prof. HARRIS' SOLUBLE MEDICATED Pastille

Has been put up in a proprietary form since 1878, and has been used for years prior to that time in private practice. It is no untried nostrum, of doubtful reputation, but a genuine specific for a very prevalent disease. Thousands of men, of all ages, have at some time in life brought on nervous debility and exhaustion, with organic weakness, by over brain work, excesses, too frequent indulgence or indiscretion and vicious habits, and it is to these that we offer a remedy that will, by its direct action upon the seat of the disease, stop the drain and restore the patient to vigorous health and strength.

Our method of introducing Prof. Harris' Pastille treatment is one which commends itself to all sensible persons—for the reason that we supply it upon their judgment of its value. We ask of our patrons nothing in the way of expense beyond a postal card and a two cent postage stamp. The postal card to be used in sending us their full address and the postage stamp for the letter returning the statement of their case for which we supply them with a question blank, to be filled out and an envelope addressed to ourselves for use in returning it when filled.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE. When we receive the statement on blank we prepare eight days' treatment and forward it by mail and prepay postage thereon—and along with the eight days' treatment we send full directions for using. The treatment in no way interferes with a person's attention to business, and causes no pain or inconvenience in any way.

We are so positive that it will give perfect satisfaction that we leave the matter of sending orders entirely with those using the free trial treatment. Having satisfied those sending for trial packages of our ability to benefit their sexual condition we feel that they are more largely interested than ourselves in continuing the use of the Pastilles. Even then we do not attempt to rob them by demanding high prices. On the contrary, we make the prices as low as possible, and the same to all. They are as follows: $3 for one month; $5 for two months; $7 for three months.

These prices secure the delivery of the Pastilles by mail. If desired by express we leave the patient to pay the charges. For over ten years we have operated our [illegible] upon this plan with satisfactory results. Will the Office Seek the Man?

Governor-elect Hastings receives such a tremendous amount of mail, mostly from aspirants for office, that Secretary Beitler and a couple of clerks are kept busy getting the letters filed and out of the way. Among the queer applications sent the governor-elect perhaps none has been more original than the following letter addressed to the next chief executive by Merchant C. Wesley Dougherty, of Tyrone:

"DEAR SIR:—I have a barrel of beans in my store, and I don't mind telling you that in the guessing of the total number of beans in the barrel, if you guess nearest the correct number I shall be willing to accept the position of Inspector of Factories in your administration. You need not hesitate about entering the contest as I assure you that you will be the only person guessing. When you consent to the conditions of this liberal offer please so inform one of my friends as I might not be at home at the time."

Wesley said to-day that he is not in a very good humor, as he has not yet had a reply to his communication.

Advanced in Years.

The mother of the proprietor of the Penns Cave hotel is 97 years old and still does some household work. She is one of the oldest persons living in the county.

Jonathan Tressler, of Linden Hall, has turned his 93d year, and is still enjoying good health. Recently he went from Linden Hall to Pleasant Gap by train unaccompanied, on a visit to his son. His mental faculties are still sound and show no deterioration incident to old age. For years he had been a user of tobacco, both chewing and smoking, but discontinued several years ago. Occasionally he uses a little liquor, but sparingly, and his habits are most regular. He does not wear glasses and his eyesight is still good.

Grand-mother Struble, living with her son at Zion, is 95 years old and still able to be about, although she is not enjoying the best of health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gephart, living with her daughter, Mrs. David Wise, on the old Gephart farm at Zion, is 93 years old and still able to do some light work. She raised a large family and in her young days would help at all kinds of work in the fields, together with attending to her house hold affairs. She reads a German paper regularly, and enjoys fairly good health.

The Trip East Overland.

A few days ago a big covered wagon drawn by four horses abreast passed through Tyrone. It contained two former Pennsylvanians who had become disgusted with Kansas were returning to their former homes in Huntingdon county, using the overland route. About the same time another covered wagon drawn by two healthy looking mules came through this section. In it were comfortably esconced Edwin Gephart, his wife and four children. They had journeved all the way from Elk county, Kansas, a distance of over fourteen hundred miles. They started overland on the 9th of September and just forty-seven days later reached the home of Philip Gephart at Zion, who is the father of the traveler. The trip was said to be a very delightful one, fraught with very little discomfort, The family slept in the wagon and ate wherever they could find a suitable camping ground. The trip cost them $35. In the future they will reside in Centre county as they had all their goods shipped there.

Shot His Sister.

Last Thursday morning Jesse Hydecker, aged about 8 years, son of the late Amos Hydecker, got hold of a revolver and was toying with it, snapping it about the room. His sister, Miss Dessie, aged about 17 years, was busy and when she noticed him told him to put it down. He pointed the weapon toward her and snapped it. That chamber happened to be loaded and the ball entered her cheek, passed out in front of the ear and took a piece off the ear. The wound is not of a dangerous character but will permanently disfigure the young lady. The occurrence is a sad one and the sympathy of the community is with the family. Nevertheless, it serves as another warning to people to keep firearms out of the reach of children.—Mapleton Item.

Deserves a Pension.

The Oil City Derrick says: "Although there are many parents in Oil City and neighborhood who have distinguished themselves by raising large families, there is possibly no woman of the same age in the State who has given birth to as many children as Mrs. Wm. Steen, who with her husband, lives on Colbert avenue extension. The lady is only 38 years old, but has given birth to twenty children, the eldest 21 years and the youngest a baby 3 months old. There has been no twins nor triplets in the family.

The Transgressor's Hard Way.

Samuel C. Seely, the defaulting bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather Bank, of New York, who stole a small amount himself and helped a confederate to steal nearly $250,000, having been caught and having pleaded guilty, has been sentenced to eight years in prison. The maximum penalty was ten years, but eight will be quite enough to convince Seely that the way of the transgressor is hard and quite enough to enforce the homely old adage, that honesty is the best policy.

Full justice was not done in the case, for Seely was the lesser rough in the transaction, his confederate, Frederick Baker, having been the tempter and the chief beneficiary of the crime. But Baker only escaped the penalty of the law by suicide—to which he was doubtless impelled by the certainty of discovery, capture and conviction. The stern sentence of the law was simply anticipated because Baker was a coward as well as a criminal, and killed himself rather than suffer in person the humiliation of an arrangement in court and association with common criminals in prison.

It is not often that punishment follows so swiftly upon the commission of crime as in the case of Seely and Baker, but it almost invariably follows sooner or later. The saddest reflection is that the fate of Seely and Baker will not prevent others from following in their footsteps and learning that the way of transgressors is hard only as they learned it, after exposure and disgrace. One would naturally think their example would serve as a great object lesson to keep all men in similar circumstances honest, but the weak and criminally inclined learn little by the example of other men. They foolishly imagine they can escape the hard way which all human experience has taught to be the lot of transgressors.

Found Dead in the Woods.

On Thursday the people of Julian and vicinity were shocked by the finding of the dead body of Jonathan Parsons in the woods near there. The particulars, so far as learned, are as follows:

Mr. Parsons was invited across the hill to see a neighbor who lived about a mile away, and started at about 11 o'clock for the place, but he never reached there. About 4 o'clock another man who was hunting in the piece of woods came across Mr. Parsons dead body just about midway between his home and where he intended oing. Several parties were notified and the body was taken home and prepared for burial.

Mr. Parsons was one of the oldest and most respected citizens of that place. His ancestry were among the first settlers of the Bald Eagle valley. At the time of the Resolutionary war they were compelled to leave because of the hostility of the Indians. When peace was restored they came back and the subject of this sketch was born, lived and died on the very spot his ancestors first settled. Mr. Parsons had not complained of feeling sick at all. He was aged 74 years.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Startling Discoveries.

City of Mexico, Dec. 26.—The authorities who are looking after counterfeiters in this city have made some startling discoveries. It is evident there is an organized colony of several hundred people scattered about the city missing and circulating the spurious coin. Thousands of dollars have been successfully "shoved" during the last few weeks. Arrests of members of the band have been made almost daily, until there are 280 of them in prison awaiting trial. The work still continues, despite this wholesale arrest.

—Write it 1895.

—The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Will Derstine died on Thursday.

—The record of births and deaths in Clinton county is 279 births and 145 deaths.

—Wednesday and Thursday were ember days. It is said they are a good forecast of the weather for the succeeding two months.

—Monday was the last day in the office for President Judge A. O. Furst. To-day Mr. Love can sign himself "John G. Love P. J."

—Some coasting was indulged in by a few of the most venturesome Tuesday night, but the atmosphere was a little too chilly for the most people.

—The railroad companies are now engaged in the interchange of annual passes for the various high officials. A nice way of sending New Year's greeting.

—It is now fully decided that Gen. Hastings will appoint Miss Jennie Fauble his private stenographer, and she will depart for Harrisburg on Monday, Jannary 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris W. Cowdrick are now in New York City where the former went to consult an experienced occulist regarding an afflictionof one of his eyes.

—James A. Fiedler, of Williamsport, is talked of for the postmastership of the house at Harrisburg. Mr. Fiedler formerly published the Bellefonte Keystone Gazette.

—The Pittsburg Times says: "All the trains to Bellefonte run on time, independent of the snow." Our esteemed exchange must have published that for the benefit of office seekers.

—S. C. Galbraith, a former secretary of the Huntingdon Reformatory, is in trouble. An officer has left Altoona for Milwaukee to bring him back on the charge of embezzling funds from an estate five years ago.

—William Gates, aged 85 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Hill, in Bush's Addition, on Friday, December 28th. The funeral ill took place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, intermen at the Forge cemetery.

—A Williamsport man on Saturday ate 102 oysters on the half shell and wanted 50 more but the restaurant keeper was afraid to give them to him. The man was not eating on a wager, either; he was simply hungry.

—A barn on the farm of Jacob Glossner in Beech Creek township, Clinton county, was entirely destroyed by fire on Friday night. Eleven head of cattle, the season's crop of hay and grain and the barn were completely destroyed.

—A charter was granted the other day at the State department, Harrisburg, to the Spangler Improvement company, with a capital of $25,000. Among the stockholders are Col. J. L. Spangler, General Beaver and other well known men of prominence.

—We are informed that Miss Mame Butts has accepted the position of stenographer and typewriter in the law office of W. F. Reeder, Esq., and that Miss Ida Orris will officiate in the same capacity for Judge A. O. Furst, when he opens up his office.

—Five negroes were killed down in Georgia because they were suspected of knowing the whereabouts of another negro who was supposed to have committed a crime. And yet Georgia people wonder why so few immigrants take up their abode in such a happy State.

—Mrs. Edward Roan, aged 22 years, died at the residence of her father, Mr. W. B. Eckley, in Coleville on Monday night. The funeral took place yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon at 2 o'clock. This is the third daughter Mr. Eckley has lost within a very brief time.

—Mr. Allen Bathurst, an old soldier aged 74 years, and a resident of Howard street, died suddenly of heart failure at 10.30 o'clock on Saturday. He was well known and much respected by all who knew him. Funeral occurred Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment to be made in the Union cemetery.

—There are few young men these days but what get handsome Christmas presents—some even handsomer than others. But the present Sydney Bartlet got on Christmas morning was one he will long remember. It was from his wife and came in the form of a handsome girl baby. Of course both Mr. and Mrs. Bartlet are rejoicing.

—Black walnut is scarce wood these days, but old farms about Philadelphia still afford to the cabinet maker noble specimens of the tree. It is said that a black walnut 100 years old will fetch in that region $109. So says a news note. It would bring more than $100 if only half as old. Walnut of any kind is valuable, and he is the wise man who plants his waste land in that kind of wood or lines his wayside fences with such trees. If a young farmer does so he will live to reap a fortune.

FOSTER'S PREDICTIONS.

His Prophesies Came True in December and He Now Speaks for January.

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from 27th to 31st, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about Jan. 1, cross the western mountain country by close of 2nd, the great central valleys from 3rd to 5th and the eastern states about the 7th.

The second storm wave of January will reach the Pacific coast about the 7th, cross the western mountain country by close of 8th, the great central valleys from 9th to 11th and the eastern states about the 12th.

Warm waves will cross the western mountain country about 1st and 7th, the great central valleys about 3rd and 9th and the eastern states about 5th to 11th. Cool waves will cross the western mountain country about 4th to 10th, the great central valleys 6th and 12th and the eastern states 8th and 14th. January temperature for the whole United States will be above the average, and rainfall about an average, while some localities will go above and others below the average.

For weather purposes eastern states include the Atlantic coast east of the Alleghenies, including Maine to Florida. In that weather division January temperature and rainfall will be above the normal in north part, average in central and below normal in southern part.

Great central valleys include all the country from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and between the summits of Rocky and Allegheny mountains. In that division the temperature and rainfall for January will be about normal, rainfall increasing to above normal toward the southeast and to below normal toward the northwest. Temperature will increase to above toward the northwest and to below toward the southeast.

On the Pacific slope the temperature and rainfall for January will be above on the north and gradually decreasing to below normal on the southern part. The Ohio valley and Tennessee and the lower lakes will have an average temperature and rainfall in January, the upper lakes inclined toward warm and dry, east gulf cold and wet, west gulf average temperature and rainfall.

New Connection for the Beech Creek.

By the unanimous vote of the stockholders or each, three projected railways in the western part of the State, have been merged in one to be known as the Pittsburg and Eastern. The lines are the Loyal Hanna and Youghiogheny railroad, the Philadelphia and Pittsburg railroad, and the Pittsburg and Eastern railroads.

The work of construction will commence in the spring and when completed the line will extend from West Newton, on the Youghiogheny, where it will connect with the Vanderbilt lines, to a connection with the Beech Creek road, another Vanderbilt line, at Mehaffey. Persons identified with the Loyal Hanna Coal and Coke Company, are the largest stockholders in the consolidated lines.

$15,000 Fire At Lock Haven.

At a few minutes past midnight this morning Lock Haven was visited by a $15,000 fire, three houses, a barn and a number of outbuildings being leveled to the ground, on which there is an insurance of about $6,000. The spread of the flames was due to the fact that nearly all the fire hydrant were frozen, and it was some time before the firemen could bring streams into play. It is a wonder that the loss was no greater under the circumstances, as frame buildings were huddled thickly together in the section burned.

THE WHEELMEN BANQUET.

The Bellefonte Bicyclists Spent a Most Enjoyable Time on Thursday Evening.

Three, twice or at least once a year, the Bellefonte Wheelmen meet together in conclave and hold an annual banquet, done for two reasons, probably, a big meal being the one time when the largest number will get together and again to keep the balance in the treasury from getting large enough to tempt the treasurer to take a trip to Canada. This may be the reasons and then it may be that it is done just to have a good social time.

But be the reason what it may, Thursday night was the time set for their fourth annual lay out and the same was held at the Brockerhoff House. All told the wheelmen and guests numbered an even two dozen as follows: Robert Hunter, Joseph Mitchell, James R. Hughes, John S. Waite, Harry Yerger, Mortimer Donohue, Charles Richards, Woods Sebring Harry Gerberich, Thomas Mitchell, Geo. T. Bush, Frank S. Rhoads, Charles Cruse, Jacob Gross, Lester Shaeffer, Edwin F. Garman, Herbert Shaeffer, Harry Taylor, Ed. B. Rankin, George Williams, George Baldwin, Charles R. Kurtz, Francis Speer and a Daily News representative.

It was but a few minutes past 10 o'clock when Mine Host Neubauer summoned the hungry-looking crowd from the parlors to the dining room where the eyes were perfectly bewildered with the magnificence of the decorations, around the room and on the table, and extremely appetizing appearance of the very extensive menu.

At one end of the dining room was a large banner bearing the inscription "Welcome Wheelmen." Against the side of the room, on a stand gently reposed John Waite's milk-colored bicycle, with handles turned backwards and handsomely trimmed with evergreen and the club's colors, green and orange. The table was most beautifully decorated with green vines, potted plants and cut flowers, the work of George Baldwin, the florist.

Once seated the young men "fell to" with a vim that betokened hunger in its worst stages and the majority of them devoured the entire contents of the following elaborate menu.

It was an extensive bill of fare, but it was surprising with what dexterity some of the young men managed to sample every portion of it; and the "samples" were not small, either. But the meal passed off merrily, as all such meals do, and when the last course had been served and devoured the clock on the wall gave the time as 11.40. During the progress of the meal, and on motion of financier Thomas Mitchell, Mr. James R. Hughes was unanimously chosen toast-master for the evening. From the dining room the young men returned to the parlor and the impromptu speaking began. The following toasts were given and responded to, in their respective order, by toastmaster Hughes:

"The Bellefonte Wheelmen's Club—it is here to stay, and why"—Thomas Mitchell.

"The Banquet—something to anticipate, more to enjoy, and long to remember"—Charles R. Kurtz.

"What will the Centre County fair have in store for the Wheelmen?"—John S. Waite.

"Root hog or die, or how I learned to ride"—Charles F. Richards.

"What inducement can we offer to persuade more ladies to ride the wheels?"—Frank S. Rhoads.

"The rights of the knights of the wheel, and should they pay toll?"—Joseph Mitchell.

"The bicycle trickrider and his mission—should he live long?"—Geo. Williams.

"The new work of the L. A. W."—Geo T. Bush.

"Our Girls"—Francis Speer.

"Are editors' brains right, do they protrude and do we appreciate them?"—Charles Cruse.

"A young father's advice to young men about to get married—does it pay?"—Robert Hunter.

The toasts concluded a vote of thanks was unanimously given to Landlord Neubauer for the magnificent feast prepared, after which the crowd sang "Landlord fill the flowing bowl" and dispersed to their several homes, it then being almost one o'clock, each and every one carrying with him fond remembrances of the evening and a longing that "annual" banquets might be held once a week.

A Tribute to Judge Furst.

Thursday's Huntingdon Globe contains the following:

When court adjourned yesterday afternoon, Judge Furst's official term practically came to the end. The members of the local bar and the officers of the court desiring to evidence their appreciation of Judge Furst's services, as well as to show their respect for him personally, held a meeting in the court room where they took final leave of His Honor and presented with a magnificent century chair, Russia leather covered, the price of which was about $100.

The meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock. Ex-Senator Williamson was unanimously elected chairman and Howard E Butz and S. E. Fleming, secretaries. John M. Bailey stated the object of the meeting and in a beautiful impromptu speech referred to Judge Furst's amiable personal qualities, his efficient services on the bench and voiced the regret of all those present at the severance of the happy official relationship about to terminate. He paid a high tribute to Judge Furst as a christian man, as a profound lawyer and an eminent jurist, and on behalf of the bar then presented him with the chair.

Judge Furst, who was seated within the bar, silently arose and with deep emotion and tender pathos gracefully accepted the present. He recounted his early struggles in life, the diligence with which he applied himself to his chosen profession, and the spirit of fairness which animated him in his service on the bench. He further adverted to the loyal support he has received from the members of the bar, and thanked one and all for the same and for the courtesies he had received at their hands.

Judge Furst was followed in the order named by Judge Geissinger, Moses A. Pointe, of Bedford, P. M. Lytle, Charles G. Brown, H. H. Waite, H. B. Dunn, K. A. Lovell, L. S. Geissinger and W. M. Williamson, all of whom spoke of Judge Furst in the highest terms. The lawyers then took final leave of Judge Furst by shaking hands and wishing him Godspeed.

The Curtin Monument Fund.

On Wednesday the Committee appointed by Gregg Post to take in charge the Curtin monument movement met and made a fuller and more complete organization by selecting a committee of twenty-one of the prominent business men of the town. Of this number Gen. James A. Beaver is chairman; John C. Miller, secretary, and James Harris, treasurer. The general committee is divided into three working committees as follows:

Finance Committee—Gen. Beaver, John P. Harris, Thomas Collins, F. W. Crider, T. H. Harter, William Shortlidge, Andrew Brockerhoff, H. Sechler, J. D. Shugert and Thomas A. Shoemaker.

Committee on design—Col. J. L. Spangler, Hon. P. Gray Meek, W. P. Humes, W. F. Reeder and Ellis L. Orvis.

Committee on Site—S. H. Williams, Robert Valentine, D. F. Fortney, Al. S. Garman and Charles Smith.

At the meeting five one-hundred dollar subscriptions were pledged, so that, so far as we now know the amount stands at $510,00. About $15,000 is the sum desired.

What is Expected of It.

An exchange crowds much truth into this short paragraph: The press endures affliction of deadheadism from the liar, stage, society, individuals and corporations. It is expected to give strength to the weak eyes to the blind, clothes to the naked, bread to the hungry, etc. It is asked to cover up infirmities, hide weakness, wink at quacks, bolster up dull, sapheaded politicians and flatter the vain. It is, in short to be all things to all men; and if it looks for a reward it is denounced as a mean and sordid sheet. There is no interest under the whole heavens that is expected to give so much to society without any pay or thanks as the press."

Amusing Mistakes.

Several amusing mistakes appear on the registry lists as returned to the county commissioners a few days ago by the assessors, says a neighboring exchange. One assessor returned the "oriental" for the original registry list; another reports the occupation of a man being an "infadel" for invalid, and a third wanted pay for setting up the "cowbooses" for the election booths. In Lycoming county some of the assessors reported several persons as dying with "ammonia," instead of pneumonia.

In the Second Degree.

Swan Melgren was found guilty of murder in the second degree at Clearfield yesterday morning. The jury retired at 9 o'clock Saturday night. The murder was committed at Grass Flat, near Peale last spring, the full particulars of which appeared in this paper at the time, when a Swede named Erickson was shot and instantly killed. The murder is 62 years old.

New System of Grading.

W. J. Shearer, superintendent of the public schools at New Castle, Pa., has introduced a new system of grading pupils which has been in successful operation in that city for two years. He believed that in the manner of grading and promoting was to be found the weakest point in our public schools, and his system is the result of special study of the subject. His object is "to do away with the 'iron-clad' system of yearly grades and give something more pliant. This is attempted by removing the cause, and dividing each grade into small classes, according to ability, with but a short interval between the classes, so that pupils may easily pass from class to class, as they are able."

One excellent feature of the new system is the abolition of the examination period, looked forward to with dread by teachers and pupils. His reasons for thinking the final examination is not best for children are given at length in the forthcoming Pennsylvania School Journal, and may be briefly stated as follows:

It is a test of memory rather than of power. It may show some things the pupil does not know, but does not show what the pupil does know. It destroys and prevents broad and intelligent teaching, makes out of the teacher a "grind" and turns out "machine pupils." It forces many to take far more than they can grasp or understand and causes many to leave school. It brings unnecessary mental worry to the nervous ones who often fail to pass, while the less worthy succeed. It is a great temptation to deceit. It demands one third more time than is necessary to give as much knowledge and better training. It does not put a premium upon the work done day by day, during the year, but upon amount of stuffing that can be done at the end of the year. It is the cause and bulwark of the attempted uniformity and the great obstacle in the way of such a system of grading, as will make it possible to suit the school to the pupil. It is useless, for every teacher knows before the examination, what the result of the examination should be. For these reasons, we believe the final examination is a moral injustice to the pupil and teacher one of the worst educational blunders, a psychological absurdity, and should be abandoned for some system similar to that now in use in this city.

A Monster Petition.

It has been determined by the general officers of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union to present the polyglot petition to Representatives of the United States Government in Washington February 15. This petition is signed in fifty languages and by as many nationalities throughout the world, and asks that the protection of the Government may no more be vouchsafed to the sale of intoxicating liquors and opium, or to the legalization of social vice.

The petition is to be presented to representatives of the British Government at the World's W. C. T. U. Convention to be held in Queen's Hall, London, June 14 to 21, 1895. Miss Williard, president of the association, and Lady Henry Somerset, vice president-at-large, with other leading white-ribbon women, will address the meetings in Washington and London at the dates named. It is expected that large delegations of American women will be present on both occasions.

The Coming Aluminum Age.

The process by which cheap aluminum is produced at its present price is a jealously guarded secret. Experimental plants are in operation all over the country, and the secret must sooner or later become common property. Then the aluminum age will dawn. The building of ships of heavy burden of aluminum is among the possibilities. In the clay banks of the country the practical scientists see the house-building lumber of the future. In 1880 aluminum cost $17 per pound, in 1886 it had declined to $8. Then the electrolytic method of reducing the ore was invented, and in 1889 the ruling price was $4. The prevailing price to-day is from fifty-three to sixty-three cents per pound in 190 pound lots, according to quality, and fifty to fifty-eight cents in ton lots.

Don't Keep Money in the House.

The most foolish people in the world are those who keep large sums of money in their homes, and their folly becomes criminal carelessness if they live in the country at a distance from neighbors. They may imagine that nobody knows their secret but such things cannot be kept. Some night they will be robbed, perhaps murdered, and the world will wonder why they didn't invest their cash or keep it in a bank.

Dedicated Free of Debt.

Members of the United Evangelical church in this city will be interested to learn that the first church built in the East Pennsylvania conference since the supreme court decision given on October 1, was dedicated free of debt a few days ago at Franklin.

Miss Elizabeth Stroop, one of Milesburg's popular school teachers, who is spending her holiday vacation in Tyrone as a welcome guest at the home of William Bouse spent several of the earliest years of her life in Tyrone when her father was the publisher of the Tyrone Democrat which was never resuscitated from the ashes of the big fire of 1880, which totally destroyed that establishment, almost wholly destroyed the Herald office, and cleaned out about everything from Walton's jewelry on Pennsylvania avenue round to Templeton, Crawford & Co's store on Tenth street except the City hotel which was only partially destroyed. It was the largest and most destructive fire that ever occurred in Tyrone.—Tyreno Herald.

Moving to the Car Works.

Jenkins & Lingle, foundrymen and machinists, having purchased the car works plant, are now moving their stock and machinery from their old location north of the Bush House to the car works buildings. Jenkins & Lingle are the successors in one of the oldest established firms in Bellefonte and have always proved one of its best and leading industries. Of late years they have been somewhat cramped in their present location and it was necessary for a better conduct of their enterprise to seek larger quarters. This they have done and we now expect to see them grow into one of the largest foundries and machine shops in the state.

And now that the buildings being vacated by this firm will be idle, why not offer inducements to the shovel manufacturing company recently burned out at Philipsburg, to come and locate in Bellefonte. This would certainly be an enterprise worth trying to get here.
